Adenauer Tells Germans To Beat Up Hooligans

Deserve On-The-Spot Punishment

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer advised West German citizens Saturday night to beat up anti-Jewish hooligans they find smearing walls with Nazi symbols.

Such punishment on the spot is what the hooligans deserve for disgracing Germany and causing a wave of hatred for Germans abroad, Adenauer said in a radio-TV address. He told German Jews they have nothing to fear, that he personally guaranteed the power of the German state stands behind them.

Nazism has no roots in West Germany and its incorrigible followers are few, Adenauer said. He pledged that the movement will never make a comeback.

The anti-Semitic incidents have been strongly condemned by the whole German people, the 84-year-old executive said in a speech relayed by all West German radio and TV stations.

There was a marked lapse across Germany in the rash of vandalism that, breaking out at a Cologne synagogue Christmas Eve, has spread to far corners of the world. None has been reported on German soil for 48 hours.

German authorities speculated that bitterly cold weather, with overnight temperatures as low as 18 degrees below zero, kept swastika smearers indoors.

One town singularly free of the manifestations throughout is Braunau, just across the German frontier in Austria, where Adolf Hitler was born in 1899.

"All is quiet here," the Braunau police chief said.

Adenauer told the German people that most of the incidents, in Germany and elsewhere, seem "due to hooliganism without any political background," but the Cologne outrage "appears to be of a political nature."

Two 25-year-old men, members of the radical rightist German Riech party, were arrested for desecration of the synagogue with swastikas and anti-Semitic slogans. They were jailed for trial Feb. 4.

The German Reich party, well-heeled but with little influence politically, has disclaimed anti-Semitic sentiments and expelled the two from its ranks.

Adenauer said the possible political background to the Cologne affair must be clarified and the consequences drawn. He evidently referrred to his government's investigation of the possibility of banning the Reich party.

The Chancellor said that most Germans had served nazism only under the hard pressure of dictatorship and not every German was a Nazi.

"I believe that should also be known abroad by now," he added.

ANTI-SEMITIC COLLECTION: John Wallace, 21, sits behind a collection of swastika armbands, anti-Semitic notes and a Hitler recording seized when he and two other youths were arrested in New York. Police said the youths formed an organization called the "National American Socialist Renaissance Party," whose members were to campaign for the deportation of Jews from the U.S. and to resort to force if that failed. The trio denied being involved in any of the recent swastika painting incidents. They were booked on a charge of consorting for an unlawful purpose. (NEA Telephoto)

'Mass Connivance' Of Cops, Criminals, Adamowski Says

CHICAGO (AP) — State's Atty. Benjamin Adamowski said Saturday there is "mass connivance" between police and criminals in Chicago.

The Republican prosecutor made his charge against the Democratic city administration as police announced three new arrests in the roundup of a burglary ring that included eight policemen.

The eight patrolmen, all of them presently or formerly assigned to the Summerdale district on the North Side, were arrested Friday in a highly secret operation carried out by police officials and state's attorney's investigators.

Loot from burglaries of business places in the Summerdale district during the last two years was found in the homes of seven of the patrolmen. Adamowski said five of the officers admitted participation in the thefts.

The prosecutor termed involvement of the eight policemen "tragic."

He said police connivance with criminals accounts for the high number of unsolved robberies, burglaries and assaults in the city.

"And the police department's top brass turns its back and acts like it didn't happen," Adamowski said.

A story told by Richard Morrison, 22-year-old master burglar, resulted in the arrest of the eight policemen he named as his accomplices in a score of burglaries. Morrison estimated loot from the thefts during the last two years totaled about $100,000.

Morrison is in the county jail awaiting trial on five charges of burglary.

All of the thefts involving police occurred in the Summerdale district. Morrison told investigators the uniformed policemen pointed out establishments to be looted and patrolled the area in squad cars as insurance against his detection while he carried out the actual burglaries.

The loot was carried away in squad cars Morrison said. He told investigators he kept all the cash he found and turned the merchandise over to the policemen.

The new arrests were those of Jerry Bossuyt, 23, Floyd Wilde, 22, Robert Vikara, 23, and James Heavey, 21. None are policemen. They were named by Morrison as his accomplices in a number of burglaries. They were charged with burglary or with being accessories to burglary.

Investigators said Bossuyt admitted participating in nine burglaries with Morrison but asserted no police were involved in those thefts.

Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor paid scant attention to Adamowski's charge of police connivance with criminals.

"That's Adamowski's comment. I have nothing to say," O'Connor commented.

The prosecutor termed the case "a shocking indictment of the moral tone of law enforcement in Chicago." He said the police department should be put to a mass interrogation by a lie detector expert outside the city.

"This cancer we're talking about can't help but have tentacles spreading into other police districts in the city," Adamowski said.

In other development Saturday O'Connor odered some 25 officers of the Summerdale district, including two police captains and several lieutenants, questioned about the case. And he impounded the district's records.

O'Connor said he wants to determine the whereabouts of supervisory police officials of the district on the nights the eight patrolmen are accused of engaging in burglary.

Morrison told state's attorneys investigators he decided to squeal on his police accomplices because he feared they would kill him when he got out of jail.

Humphrey Bids For Alaska's Nine Convention Votes

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) made a direct, personal appeal for Alaska's nine Democratic convention votes Saturday in the face of a long tradition favoring uninstructed delegations. He received a friendly welcome and words of praise, but no promises.

Gov. William A. Egan, the first elected chief executive of the 49th state attending the nation's first 1960 state convention, praised the Minnesota senator for his support of Alaska statehood and said: "It is more than remotely possible that the next president is here with us today—as our honored and distinguished guest."

Humphrey pulled no punches in his quest for Alaska's votes.

"You are about to select the first delegation from the state of Alaska to a presidential nominating convention," he said. "And at that convention, I'm to make my inaugural appearance as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

The voting delegates will not be selected until Sunday, however. Key state and national party committee posts also will be filled at that time.

There were informal moves in advance of Humphrey's appearance here to obtain pledges for his support. There also was some talk of pledging the Alaska delegation initially to Sen. E. L. Bartlett (D-Alaska) as a favorite son. Such a decision apparently will be left to the delegates who are elected.

Jeopardize Agreement With Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is mounting a new pressure campaign aimed at forcing President Eisenhower and other Western leaders to abandon their protection of West Berlin.

His maneuver could break down the one solid agreement on a major issue which was reached by Eisenhower and Khrushchev in their meeting last September at Camp David, Md.

This accord provided that Khrushchev would drop his threats to deal with the Berlin problem by independent action. In return, Eisenhower would specify that he realized negotiations for a Berlin settlement could not be dragged on indefinitely.

This cleared the way for agreement on a summit meeting at Paris beginning May 16. Berlin will be one of the main issues discussed. But it is now becoming clear that Khrushchev does not intend that the discussions will be free of Soviet pressures.

In a speech in Budapest last December, in a rambling New Year's Eve talk with diplomats at the Kremlin, and most importantly in his speech to the Supreme Soviet last Thursday, Khrushchev has hammered the theme that he wants a settlement on Berlin and the signing of a German peace treaty.

He has implied he does not intend to wait long beyond May's summit meeting to get these results.

All this seems to indicate that Khrushchev's tactic of backslapping cordiality and avoidance of threats, which he practiced so assiduously last fall, is now giving way to a tougher stand.

In the State Department, this shift was foreseen. As the time for bargaining neared, Khrushchev has been expected to use a combination of threats and promises, to hold out offers of peace and disarmament and to brandish his nuclear rocket power.

Top Western diplomats in Moscow, including U.S. ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, got a personal insight into his thinking in the course of a New Year's Eve reception at the Kremlin, Thompson sent a long report on Khrushchev's rambling conversation, which continued for several hours.

At times, Khrushchev was truculent, even threatening. At other times he seemed to emphasize belief in East-West settlements and relaxed tensions.

Nixon Discounts, Cautions Questions New Soviet Weapon, Warns Cuba About Confiscation

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon declared Saturday it is inconceivable that the Soviet Union could have a new weapon devastating enough to give the Soviet Union the confidence to make a surprise attack on the United States.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev recently announced the Soviet development of a mighty new weapon but gave no hint of its nature.

Nixon, a frequent vacation visitor to Florida, is making his first appearance here as a presidential candidate.

"No one knows what weapon they may have," Nixon told a news conference, "but I would point out we have striking power of sufficient quality and quantity that no weapon that we can conceive of would be sufficient to destroy our retaliatory power even in a surprise attack or reduce his (Khrushchev's) fear of what might happen if he started something."

Discussing the strained relations between the United States and Cuba, Nixon warned that Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government cannot expect a continued flow of American investments unless this nation's business interests are made welcome.

He said the United States has no intention of interfering in Cuba's internal affairs but if American property is confiscated without compensation "Cuba must expect some reaction."

Nixon estimated U. S. citizens at present are paying a premium of about 180 million dollars for Cuban sugar and noted several other Latin-American countries would like larger import quotas.

"I'm not suggesting that the quota will be changed," he said. "I'm only suggesting that the pressure within Congress will be very great to change it as long as Cuban government policies involve confiscation of American interests in Cuba."

Commenting on the recent attack by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) on the administration's handling of domestic and internation problems, Nixon declared President Eisenhower has shown strong leadership though his methods may be more persuasive than forceful.

"I disagree with the tendency to characterize leadership in terms of personality rather than

Mitchell Blasts Democratic Slatemakers Machine Tactics

CHICAGO (AP) — Stephen A. Mitchell, former Democratic national chairman, Saturday night said that the Illinois party's slatemakers are using a political blackjack to shut off support of his candidacy for governor.

"I have just learned that certain candidates for the Legislature and Congress are being forced to sign letters pledging their full support to the machine and the machine slate," he said.

Mitchell, one of two candidates running without the blessing of the Democratic State Central Committee, attacked the committee's endorsement last week of a slate for the April 12 primary. He was the last of the three Democratic candidates for governor to address the Democratic Federation of Illinois Saturday.

He said the "Democratic machine slatemakers have reached a new low in raw machine pressure" and added that "the machine is desperately afraid of a challenge."

"By this action these men (candidates for Legislature and Congress) are being denied their right to express themselves freely," Mitchell said. He did not elaborate on the pledge letters but reiterated that he favors "a free and open primary wherein every

Sen. Byrd Warns Against Tax Cuts, Boost In Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va) said Saturday Congress will be guilty of fiscal irresponsibility if it cuts taxes or boosts spending because President Eisenhower foresees a budget surplus.

Byrd, who heads the Senate Finance Committee, said Eisenhower's prediction that there will be a $4,200,000,000 surplus on June 30, 1961, "cannot be accepted or regarded as an accomplished fact."

"From experience I know accurate budget estimates 18 months in advance are extremely rare," the Virginia senator said in a statement. He noted that a surplus had been estimated for the year ending last June 30 but instead there was a 12½-billion-dollar deficit.

Eisenhower's formal submission of his $79,800,000,000 spending program to the Democratic Congress Monday is expected to touch off a new election-year battle of the budget.

Some Democrats want to take Eisenhower at his word and spend some of the big surplus he predicts. They argue that they can boost defense, housing, school, health, highway and other outlays without being tabbed budget-busters. Few of them have advocated tax cuts.

Democratic leaders have quietly agreed among themselves on a strategy of cutting the overall appropriations below the level of Eisenhower's requests.

Congress has little practical control over the amount the government spends but it can pinch back some of the departments and bureaus by refusing to appropriate all of the new money requested.

The strategy of the Democratic leaders probably will be to increase defense outlays above the 41 billion dollars Eisenhower is expected to ask in this field. They also may up his requests for health, education and welfare activities.

To offset this they expect to cut back the rest of the 17 regular money supply bills somewhere between 5 and 10 per cent. These cuts probably will include a substantial slice in foreign aid funds.

Peru Quake Strands 800 On Pan American Highway

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Earthquakes which struck southern Peru last week practically leveled the city of Chuquibamba and left hundreds of motorists stranded on the Pan American Highway, aerial observers reported Saturday.

Chuquibamba, a city of 8,000 about 28 miles east of Arequipa, was hit Friday. The first of a series of quakes caused extensive damage Wednesday to Arequipa, 460 miles southeast of Lima. Guillermo Garrido Lecca and Julio Manuel Aramayo, ministers of health for Peru and Bolivia, respectively, flew over the stricken area in a helicopter Saturday. They reported Chuquibamba in ruins and said the death toll is certain to be high.

Compilation of the dead and injured were impossible because of disrupted communications. Latest reports put the death toll at Arequipa at 26, 2 dead at Aplao, 2 at Huancarqui and 1 at Camana.

Helicopter pilots estimated 800 persons were trapped on a 55-mile stretch of the Pan American Highway blocked by fissures and landslides. In addition a bus carrying 24 persons is missing on a trip to Chuquibamba from Camana.

Officials of a mining company sent food and water to some of the stranded motorists. They estimated that the highway could not be reopened within 15 days. Efforts will be made to make an old bypass road serviceable.

PLAN CABLE CAR TO CASTRO'S OLD HIDEOUT

HAVANA (AP) — Admirers of Fidel Castro who want to visit his onetime hideout in the rugged Sierra Maestra won't have to slog over the trails once used by Cuban revolutionaries. The National Tourism Institute has contracted for a four-mile cable car system to the top of Pico Turquino, a 6,500-foot peak, Cuba's highest, where a national museum is planned.

Successfully Launch, Inflate Sphere At 250 Miles Altitude

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists successfully inflated a 100-foot balloon 250 miles in the air Saturday night.

The collapsed balloon had been fired aloft by rocket from Wallops Island, Va. and then automatically inflated.

It was the second successful test of this kind. The experiments are in preparation for orbiting similar spheres around the earth and using them to bounce radio signals over great areas.

A similar balloon launching on Oct. 28 occurred without advance notice. Sudden appearance of the shining sphere in the sky startled many people over a wide area.

Saturday's attempt, by contrast, was announced in advance. The launching was originally set for Wednesday, later for Thursday and finally for Saturday evening. Both postponements were because of cloudy weather.

After a similar 100-foot sphere aluminum-coated, is put into orbit next spring, scientists of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration hope to use it as a sky reflector for further experiments in two-way radio communication between the East and West coasts of the United States.

Saturday's balloon was fired aloft by rocket at 5:35 p.m.

When launched, the balloon was folded inside the nose of a rocket vehicle. When it inflated high in the sky the sphere shone brighter than any of the stars that were just becoming visible in the gathering dusk.

During the sphere's brief existence it served for the first experimental bouncing of radio signals from such an object.

NASA said the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Holmdel, N. J., bounced a signal on 960 megacycles which was received for about 11 minutes by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology stationed at Round Hill, Mass., near Boston.

Visibility conditions generally were good. NASA was informed that the sphere was seen at three points on Long Island, and at Wilmington, Del., Stamford and New London, Conn.

In Washington, about 130 miles west of Wallops Island, the sphere was visible about 10 minutes before it sank down into the shadow of the earth.

NASA said the balloon reached an altitude of about 250 miles, and traveled 490 miles eastward out over the Atlantic.

The two-stage launching vehicle was 32½ feet tall and weighed 5½ tons at takeoff.

It hurled the sphere aloft with an initial thrust of 130,000 pounds.

The sphere weighed about 130 pounds.

After ejection from the container, the sphere started to inflate because of the air remaining inside it. The release of 30 pounds of chemicals inside the sphere made it a good reflector of light and radio signals.

The sphere was developed by the Langley Applied Materials and Physics Division of NASA at Hampton, Va.

The balloon fell into the Atlantic at the end of the test. No attempt to recover it was planned.

Issue Heavy Snow, Sleet Warning For Central Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A major winter storm built up over the Southwest Saturday and aimed a wind-powered thrust of snow and ice toward the central plains.

The Weather Bureau warned of heavy snow, with accumulations of 4 inches or more, in southwest Kansas and northwest and extreme western Oklahoma. Sleet or freezing rain also was expected in parts of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

As the storm intensified, it scattered snow from Arizona and New Mexico into the central Rockies and adjacent sections of the plains. Winds with gusts up to 50 miles an hour were indicated for much of the snow area during Saturday night.

Snow also dusted interior sections of the Pacific Northwest and northern California. Flurries persisted from the eastern Great Lakes into the north and central Appalachians.

Investigators Find Mystery Of Julian Frank Deepening - Was It Murder Or Suicide?

NEW YORK (AP)—The mystery of Julian Frank deepened Saturday.

Was it suicide or possibly murder when the young attorney, who had almost $900,000 in life insurance, went to his death in an apparently bomb-blasted airliner Jan. 6 in North Carolina.

Investigators knew he had troubles, financial and legal. Two complaints lodged with the district attorney's office alleged he misused funds. If proven, the charges could have led to disbarment.

He had reason for despondency. But could his financial deals have made him a target of foreign intrigue or of underworld plotters?

Investigators were not ruling out any possibility.

Was Frank involved in behind-the-scenes deals with Cubans? If so, were they with forces friendly to or opposed to the new regime?

The FBI, mum on its probe, reportedly was delving into possible Cuban aspects in questioning those who knew Frank.

Among those killed in the crash was Carlos Ramos, vice president of the Continental Bank of Cuba. Whether they knew each other or were together was not determined.

Julian A. Frank

Was Frank beholden in some way to gamblers or mobsters? Had he aroused their enmity? Why had he visited Las Vegas, Nev., recently?

Authorities leaned to the theory that he carried a bomb aboard in a small blue valise and took his own life—and those of 33 others aboard the New York-to-Miami flight—as a way out of his problems.

But here, too, there were nagging questions.

As a lawyer, he almost certainly knew the life insurance would be voided by suicide and that his family would not benefit.

If he carried a bomb aboard, where did he make it, or get it?

Why did he buy a roundtrip ticket?

Why, if he were suicide-minded was he gaily drinking champagne on New Year's six days before the flight, and talking of buying a boat.

His blonde wife, the former Janet Wagner who was a $40-an-hour fashion model, apparently had no inkling of any suicide intentions.

"I can't believe these insinuations," she cried in the $45,000 Westport, Conn., home the couple had bought only two months ago. She has been staying in seclusion with her two children.

The Red Army Since World War II

SIGN OF SOVIET SUPREMACY?— Russia is now so strong in rockets and nuclear weapons it can afford to cut back its conventional forces. So said Premier Nikita Khrushchev in his first address in 1960 to the Supreme Soviet (Russia's parliament). He recommended that the army be reduced by one-third within the next two years—a slash of some 1.2 million men from its present strength. Chart above shows the history of the Red Army from its peak strength in 1945 to the 1948 demobilization, its Cold War peak in 1955, and up to the present, as indicated by the Soviets. Western military experts tend to differ, stating that they believe U.S.S.R. has some four million men under arms at present; an estimated 175 divisions.

NEW HOSPITAL PLAN
PAYS UP TO $25 A DAY FOR AS LONG AS 500 DAYS

Now you may qualify for LIFETIME hospital protection

OMAHA, NEBR. — A new hospital and surgical plan now offers millions of folks the opportunity to get the latest, medically approved treatment and care without going heavily into debt or borrowing from their savings.

5 YEARS OF STUDY AND RESEARCH

The result of 5 years of intensive study and research, Golden Anniversary Plan 30FH (Riders 1703M, 1710M) pays up to $25 a day during hospitalization. Benefits continue for up to 500 days — far longer than most ordinary group or individual plans — to help people weather the expenses of a long term sickness or accident. Special Senior Age Benefits. Unlike many policies, daily room and board benefits do not terminate at age 65 but continue at full rate for as long as 30 days.

Introduced by the largest organization of its kind in the world—Mutual of Omaha — it also provides up to $250.00 for maternity ($500.00 for twins), from $7.50 to $375.00 for surgery, dislocations and fractures. Surgical benefits are paid according to schedule, whether operation takes place in hospital, home, or doctor's office.

Policyowners will also be able to collect up to $1,000.00 in "hospital extras" benefits for medicines, hypodermics, administering blood transfusions, operating room, surgical casts and dressings, oxygen, xray, anesthetic, and laboratory service. Pays first $100.00, plus 80% of additional "hospital extras" expense, up to a total of $1,000.00.

Covers accidents occurring after policy date. Hospital Benefits are payable for sickness originating more than 30 days after the policy date; however, in the case of heart trouble, hernia, female trouble, or any disease of the tonsils, adenoids or appendix, hospital confinement must begin more than 90 days after the policy date. Surgical Benefits are payable for sickness originating more than 30 days after the policy date when the operation is performed after 90 days.

Maternity benefits paid after both husband and wife have been insured for 10 months and for full term of pregnancy. Only cases not covered: loss caused by war or military service, mental conditions, or where services are paid for or provided by Workmen's Compensation, Employer's Liability, or United States Government.

EVEN COVERS DENTAL SURGERY, SERVICE AND REPAIR

Dental surgery, service and repair are covered under the hospitalization — though not the surgical part of the plan — at the rate of up to $25 a day for as long as 500 days.

A special Lifetime Renewal Safeguard protects against policy termination because of future changes in your health. Renewal may be refused only in case of deception, and you cannot be singled out for a premium increase because any rate change must be for all policies of the same class.

Girls Urged To Consider Careers In Science

WASHINGTON (AP) — Girls, if you love to solve puzzles, find out how gadgets work, experiment with new ideas and read about scientific discoveries, you have what it takes to be a scientist.

So say U.S. Labor Department experts. They say now as never before "is the time for girls to consider careers in science."

The department's Women's Bureau made public Saturday a 77-page booklet, "Careers for Women in the Physical Sciences." Bureau experts think the demand for women in this field will be rising, and a special appeal is being made to high school girls to start thinking about such a career.

Researchers found an imposing array of encouraging data about women already in the field and prospects for those who train in physics, chemistry, geology, astronomy or meteorology.

They found women now represent a small proportion of scientists in America—something like 14,000 women among 170,000 in the five physical sciences. But the outlook was pictured as changing.

Emphasis is placed on proper training and education, with degrees beyond the bachelors level especially important for women because:

"In a sense women scientists are still pioneering in fields in which men predominate and therefore, they should be sure that their training is at least the equivalent of, if not better than, that of their male counterparts."

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

As we enter this new decade there is a couplet recalled from Edgar Allen Poe "All that we see or seem, is but a dream within a dream". And it certainly looks that way. The forecast is for new advances in civilization as we know it . . . or at least, as we knew it. Wondrous things that range from TV-telephones, moving sidewalks and rocket ships; to fully automatic homes that light themselves up, lock or open the doors and window, and even put out the cat. There is also a car that you don't bother to steer . . . it drives itself along a radar beam . . . the same beam your wife is usinng to cook a complete meal in thirty seconds. Of course, driving without steering isn't really new . . . we all know a few who have always done that. Anyway, it looks like a rough decade in store, especially for us fellows who are still trying to figure out the refrigerator light. Is there really a little man . . .?

A Kansas man was refused a marriage license because he could not remember his fiancee's first name. Why not settle for "Honey".

Buying a car is an important investment, and it's important, too, that you know your car dealer. On our lot, we have a stock of used cars in many makes and models, and our reputation is your personal guarantee that the car you buy is a clean, dependable one, at the lowest possible cost to you. ## With The Girl Scouts

On Wednesday, January 20, at 1:00 p.m. in the Congregational Church in Jacksonville will be held one of the most important meetings of the scout year, the annual Council voting meeting. Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council will elect Board members and Board committee members, most of them for terms of two years, at this meeting. Delegates to the National Council will also be elected.

All registered adults in Scouting are members of the Council, troop leaders, assistant leaders, troop committee members, Board members and Board committee members. There are approximately 400 adults in Illinois Prairie Council.

Featured speaker at the annual meeting will be Mrs. Sherwood Eddy of Jacksonville, who has participated in Girl Scouting for many years.

Members of the Program committee have planned a delightful Girl Scout tea to follow the program. Get up a carload in your neighborhood and attend this meeting. Neighborhood meetings for the month of January have been cancelled so that more persons can attend the Council meeting.

Other meetings scheduled for the coming week include a meeting of the Training Committee at 9:30 a.m. Monday at the Scout office and a meeting of mothers of girls in Mrs. Frank McCarthy's room at Jefferson school on Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the school in the interest of organizing a new Brownie troop.

Pottery Workshop

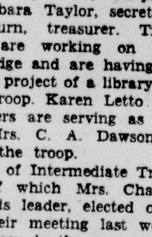
"The Hands of Man—Adventuring in Pottery" was the title of the first film workshop of the series "Adventuring in the Hand Arts" shown last week at the office. Twenty-three persons took advantage of the expert instruction given through the showing of films which were presented on television last year. Mimeographed copies of directions and suggestions for instructing troops will be mailed to all who attend these sessions. The next one, entitled "Weaving and Man's Dress" will be presented Tuesday, Jan. 26, at 9:30 a.m. in the Scout office. Because of the difficulty in setting up the sound projector, all of these workshops will be held at our central location.



A number of new troops are in the process of organization at Greenfield as a result of a mother's meeting held there last Monday. Leaders have been secured for at least four troops and these will be registered in the near future.

There is a new second grade troop at Franklin school in Jacksonville being organized this week as a result of a mother's meeting held there last Tuesday.

Members of the Public Relations committee of the Executive Board held a second meeting this month last Wednesday. They are busy making out forms for the annual Council report which will be mimeographed in the office this year.

Troop Activities

On Jan. 13, 1960, Intermediate Girl Scout Troop No.75 celebrated its third birthday. Nine girls were registered for the year ending in January, 1961. Seven of these girls received their year stars which are paid for from troop funds.

A party was enjoyed. Nancy Pierce, Karen Letto and Nancy Dawson planned the program and games. Favors of green nut cups decorated with violets were made by Judy Stout, Peggy Jo Saunderson and Mary Bourn. The refreshments committee was composed of Judy Powers, Barbara Taylor and Margaret Losch.

Cake and cookies were prepared by the girls on the committee. Soft drinks were also served.

Newly elected officers for Troop No. 75 are :Peggy Jo Saunderson, president; Judy Stout, vice-president; Barbara Taylor, secretary; Mary Bourn, treasurer. Troop members are working on "My Troop" badge and are having an interesting project of a library inside the troop. Karen Letto and Judy Powers are serving as librarians. Mrs. C. A. Dawson is leader of the troop.

Members of Intermediate Troop No. 16, of which Mrs. Charles Nicholson is leader, elected officers at their meeting last week. Becky Massey is the new secretary and Ellen Dawson, the new treasurer. Each of the three patrols elected new leaders for the coming two months.

Highlight of the meeting was the presentation of a 49-star flag to the troop by the American Legion Auxiliary of Jacksonville. Mrs. Lyle Davis made the presentation on behalf of the Auxiliary. Mrs. Davis is also assistant troop leader.

TAPS FOR WAR DEAD

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Each class day, taps are sounded on the Ohio State University campus for a former student who died in military service. The student newspaper announces each morning which former student is to be remembered that day.

New Officers Conduct Priscilla Club Meeting

PITTSFIELD — The Priscilla Club met at the home of Mrs. Roy Crabtree on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Ralph Harp, Mrs. Lloyd Valentine and Mrs. Edna Westlake assisting. The new officers took over at this first meeting of 1960: president, Mrs. Crabtree; vice-president, Mrs. Valentine; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Harp, publicity, Mrs. Guy Zimmerman and cards and flowers, Mrs. Ted Dell.

The club had sent $20 to the Wallender family, whose home burned recently. They asked all members to bring a blanket and 25c to church next Sunday to join all church members in the immediate emergency for these to be sent overseas to Europe, the Middle East and Asia to help millions of refugees from freezing this winter. These will be sent to Springfield and from there will be sent by trucks and later flown to Europe.

The Pittsfield church will furnish the worship service at the Christian Home in Jacksonville on January 31 and all who take cars will report to the church.

Newspaper Seminar Set For Feb. 19-20

The American newspaper, wherein exists "the marketplace of ideas" as one newsman put it, will be dissected Feb. 19-20 for the seventh successive year at MacMurray College.

What began in the 17th century as a broadside expressing a group opinion on a major issue, then grew into the first daily newspaper in 1833, will be taken apart —(and put back together again)— by newsmen from Chicago, St. Louis and downstate Illinois dailies. They will lead some 30 seminars for an anticipated 300-plus students from over 60 schools — the number attending last year's conference.

Jacob Scher, Professor of Journalism at Northwestern University, and its Dean, William Cole, will represent the non-working press. It was Scher who declared last year that "newspapers as the marketplace of ideas are vital to the democratic process, but they must be responsible in reporting the news."

His remarks blended in with those of Dr. George W. Crane, nationally syndicated columnist who, as featured banquet speaker, stated that they also can become "the greatest educational force in the nation. Just as teachers in our public school systems, newspaper editors wield a powerful force on the public at large."

Conference Change This Year

For the first time since its beginning in 1953, the conference schedule will be altered. It will not begin this year until Friday noon, with more workshops scheduled for Saturday so that Illinois high schools can have greater participation than ever before.

To comply with the Illinois High School Association, which does not sanction high schools attending any conference on a school day, the bulk of the conference will be Friday evening and Saturday. Only two workshop sessions will be held before that time, for colleges. Before the conference begins, an informal coffee will be held Friday at 10 a.m., when newsmen and students can meet.

Returning from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat will be Robert L. Burnes, Sports Editor. From Chicago will be newsmen from both the Sun-Times and Daily News. Editors of two Illinois dailies — the DeKalb Chronicle and the Decatur Herald & Review, also will be here.

Handbooks For Jurors Used Here First Time

Morgan county circuit court jurors will in the future have a written outline of their duties to guide them, in addition to instructions from the court, if they are chosen to hear evidence in either civil or criminal cases.

Circuit Clerk Philip Bradish said Friday that his office has received a supply of two handbooks, first of their kind in Illinois, prepared by a special committee of the Illinois Judicial Conference, a statewide organization of circuit and superior court judges formed by rule of the Illinois Supreme Court.

Distribution of the handbooks to prospective jurors will be in charge of the presiding judges. Last week the pamphlets were used by jurors for the first time.

Gerald C. Snyder of Waukegan, president of the Illinois State Bar Association, announced that shipments of the handbooks were made to court clerks throughout the state. As a public service the educational foundations of the Illinois State and Chicago Bar Associations undertook the expense of printing 100,000 copies each of the two booklets.

According to the State Bar Association president, the handbooks will result in better juries by informing jurors in advance of trial of their duties and responsibilities, the definition of terms commonly used during trial, explain the sequence of court proceedings, and the proper functions of the attorneys and judge. The handbooks also draw attention to the importance of serving as a juror, terming their services "as important as those of the judge."

A third handbook dealing with service on grand juries is in the process of preparation by the state committee.

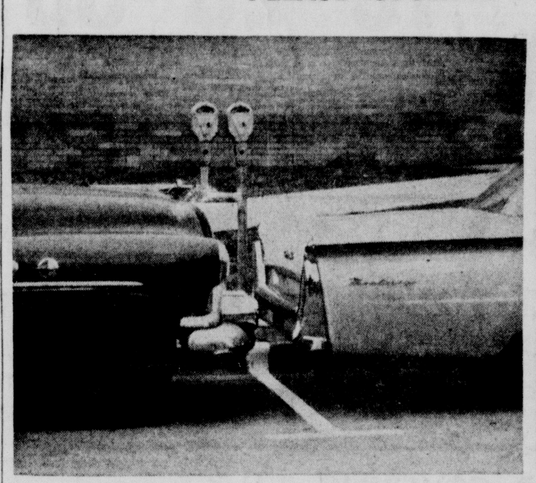
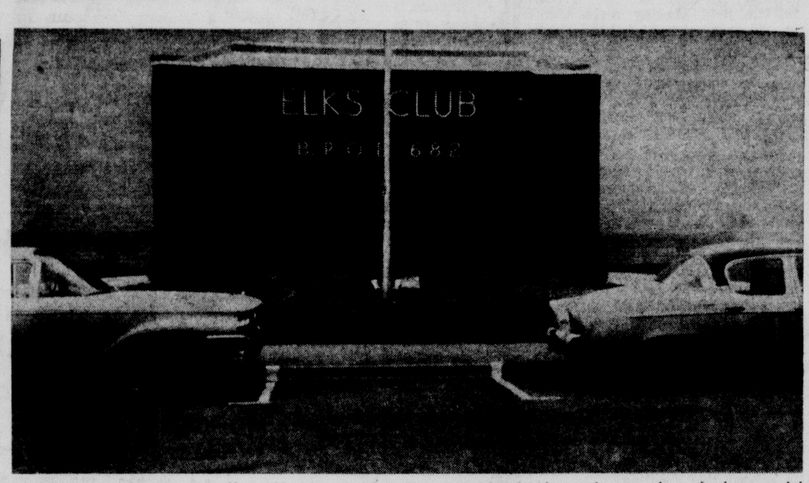
PLEASE OBSERVE PROPER METHOD OF 'SKIP' PARKING





'Skip' parking is both easy and convenient for busy shoppers but as in all traffic laws the idea must be both understood and observed by everyone to be effective.

Picture at left shows the dual head parking meters which act as a divider for each pair of parking spaces. Notice that both cars are parked with the bumper just touching the line.

At right, the "buffer" zone provides plenty of room for both cars to maneuver into and out of the space. Each motorist should park within his own space. No portion of the auto should extend into the "buffer" zone which is painted bright yellow.

Youth Week To Be Climaxed By Banquet Feb. 7

The Ecumenical Relations committee of the Jacksonville Council of Churches is announcing that the observance of Youth Week will be held in Jacksonville from January 31 through February 7, culminating in a united Youth banquet in the Central Christian Church, Sunday evening, February 7.

The Rev. Frederick Tyrrell is in charge of arranging the program.

On Sunday evening, February 21, in the Congregational church, Race Relations and Brotherhood Sunday will be observed with a special service at 7:30 o'clock. The speaker will be the Rev. Patrick Bacchus, director of the Wesleyan Foundation at Normal, Illinois.

The service will be informal, followed by a social hour, at which time refreshments will be served.

THIS IS HOW THE INTERSECTIONS WILL APPEAR

This is a "bird's eye" view of the southwest corner of the Public Square but Jacksonville's shoppers will observe a repeat performance at each of the four corners of the square.

Patrolman Cloyd Wilson helped pose three willing citizens for our camera Saturday morning so we could show the traffic pattern. Note the lack of cross-traffic — The car at right has easy access onto the square while the line of traffic leading from the Square onto West Morgan continues without difficulty.

Modern Traffic Plan Designed For Ease Of City's Shoppers

Jacksonville motorists will usher in a new era in modern traffic plans starting Monday morning. Sleepy-eyed drivers on the way to the store or office should take just a moment longer and observe the new street signs.

Monday morning at 12:01 a.m. all one-way street signs in the business district will do an about-face. Complete reversal of one-way streets will allow traffic to flow more easily both off and on the Public Square at each of the four corners. The modern traffic plan was adopted by the city council last November and will take effect tomorrow.

Police Will Cooperate

Determined to avert the possibility of "blue" Monday in Jacksonville, Chief of Police Charles P. Runkel has instructed police officers to keep a close eye on the new traffic pattern.

"We will do everything possible to assist, instruct and explain this new plan to motorists using the one-way streets," Runkel told the Journal Courier last night. "No arrests for improper parking or 'wrong-way' driving will be made during the early stages of operation," he said.

Chief Runkel added that the presence of police officers around the one-way streets will be to assist anyone who needs it. All police officers will inform motorists when they are improperly parked.

Mayor Comments

In an interview last night, Mayor Robert A. DuBois said, "Jacksonville's new traffic plan has been designed with the busy shopper in mind. The plan is the first stage of an overall traffic plan for the entire city engineered by Evert Kincaid and Associates, city planners.

"The elimination of cross-traffic will curb many of the bottlenecks usually found when entering or leaving the Square from each of the four corners," he said. "I strongly urge the citizens of Jacksonville to observe the signs and follow directions indicated so that traffic will move without difficulty."

Street Department Busy

The city's full complement of street department employees have been working all week in preparation for the changeover. Street Department Superintendent Sam Pevey was hopeful of sunshine today so that parking spaces can be marked with yellow and white paint.

Alderman Joe Grojean, chairman of the highway committee, said the entire department would be working today so that signs and parking meters would be in place by Monday morning.

Several one-way streets will be extended a block or so at each end where the street is too narrow for two-way traffic.

Streets Affected

The following streets have been designated "one-way:"

West Morgan from Public Square to Dunlap Court.

East Morgan from South Clay to Public Square.

West Court from North Church to Public Square.

East Court from Public Square to North Clay.

North Sandy from Public Square to West Lafayette.

South Sandy from West Beecher to Public Square.

North Mauvaisterre from Washington Street to Public Square.

South Mauvaisterre from Public Square to East Beecher.

Direction of Traffic

The direction of traffic on each of the one-way streets will be as follows:

West Morgan and East Morgan —Westbound traffic only.

West Court and East Court — Eastbound traffic only.

North Sandy and South Sandy —Northbound traffic only.

North Mauvaisterre and South Mauvaisterre — Southbound traffic only.

North Sandy Fire Lane

The west lane of North Sandy Street between West Douglas and the Public Square will be designated as a FIRE LANE.

FIRE equipment and EMERGENCY vehicles, on call, may move in EITHER DIRECTION in this lane of traffic. Parking in the special fire lane is prohibited for any reason. Police officers are authorized to have any vehicles towed away when parked in the special lane.

Their trip took them from the southernmost tip of Africa, the Cape of Good Hope, up to Cairo, Egypt. In a number of instances she and her husband were the only two white people in the dining room or on the train.

In Egypt they visited many interesting places of Biblical history. She spoke of the food and made comparisons with other places they had visited. They also visited in Athens, Greece and the surrounding country. The schools are scarce, mostly parochial or private. They visited Mau-Mau territory and Belgian Congo, seeing the pygmies. They were treated with respect wherever they went.

EXERCISE BULLDOZER

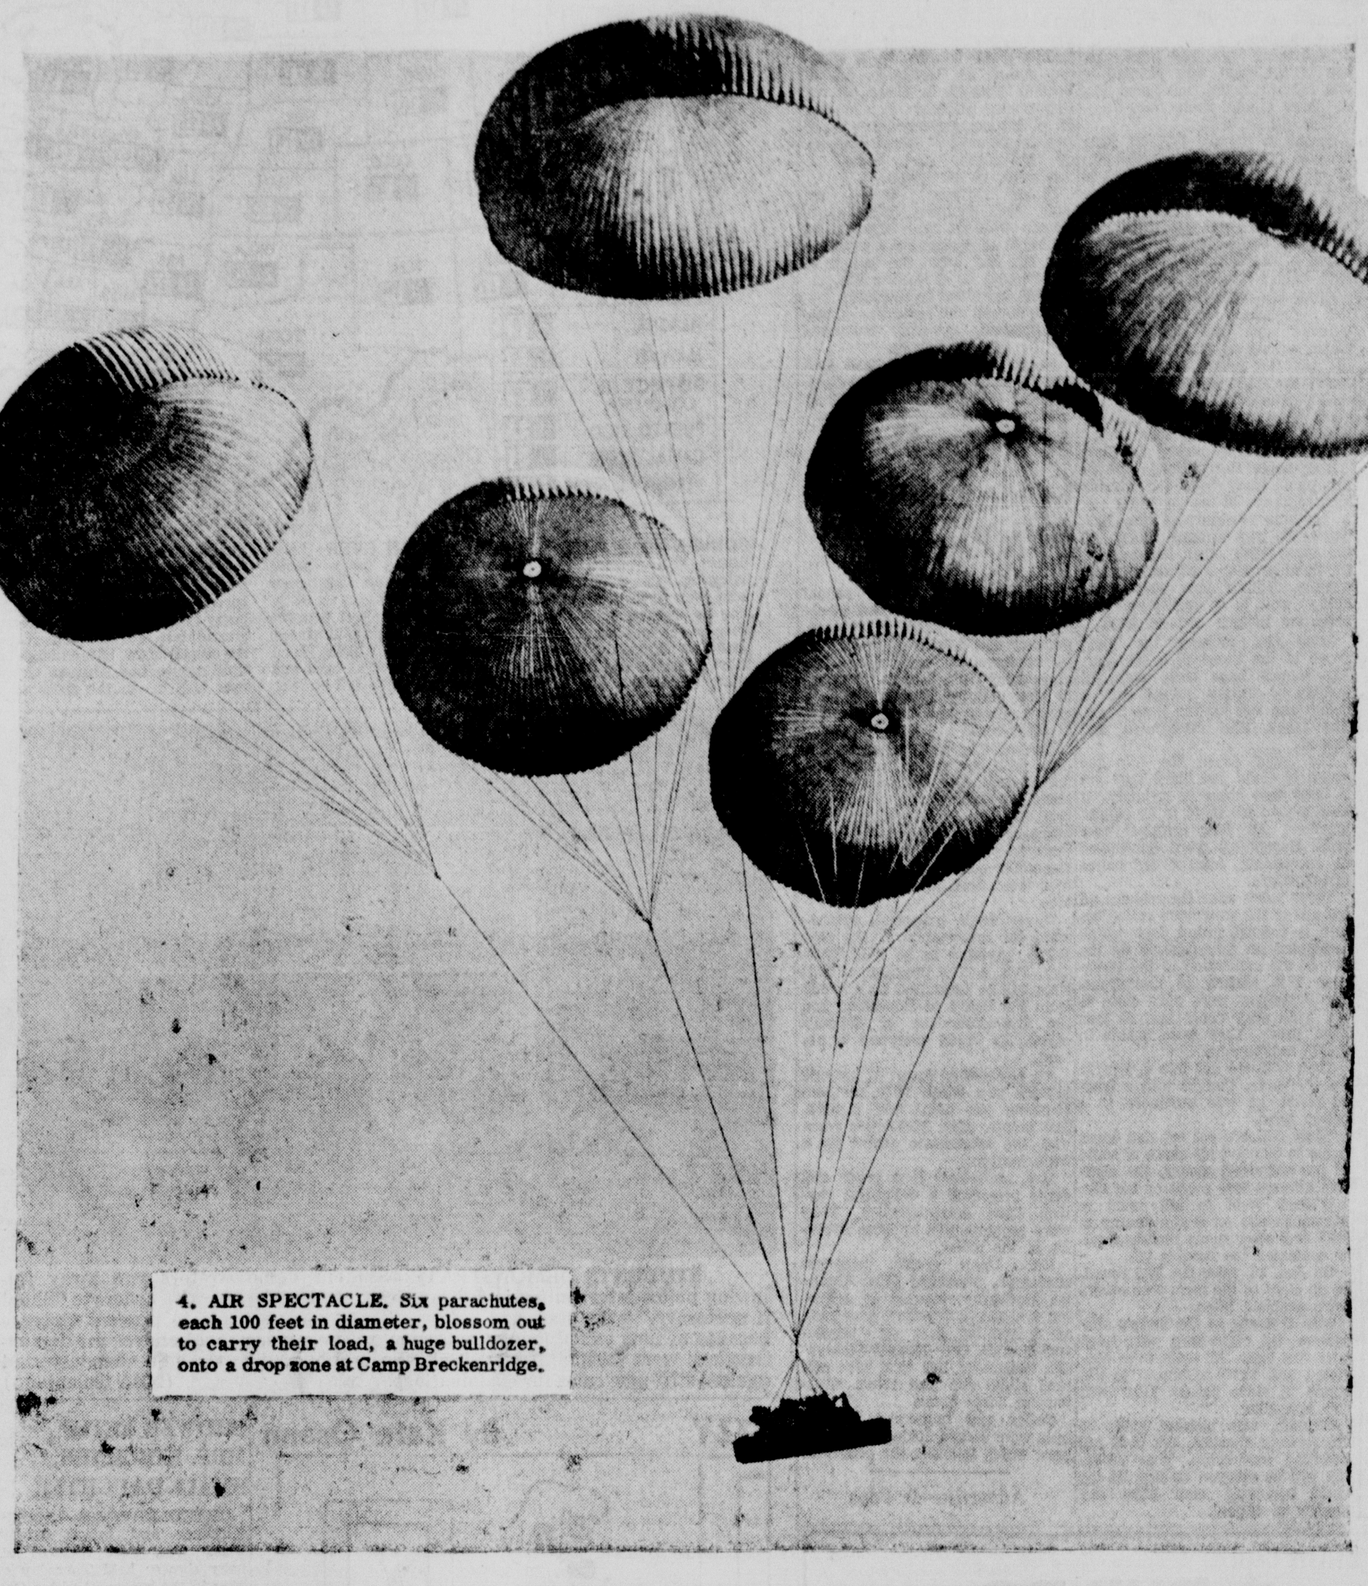
1. MASS LEAP. Paratroopers of the 326th Airborne Engineers, 101st Airborne Division, jump into Camp Breckenridge, Ky.

2. Two members of engineer battalion move out fast from drop zone at Camp Breckenridge after landing by parachute.

3. Meanwhile the loading of heavy equipment into planes for the big drop goes on. This truck is going for the ride.



4. AIR SPECTACLE. Six parachutes, each 100 feet in diameter, blossom out to carry their load, a huge bulldozer, onto a drop zone at Camp Breckenridge.

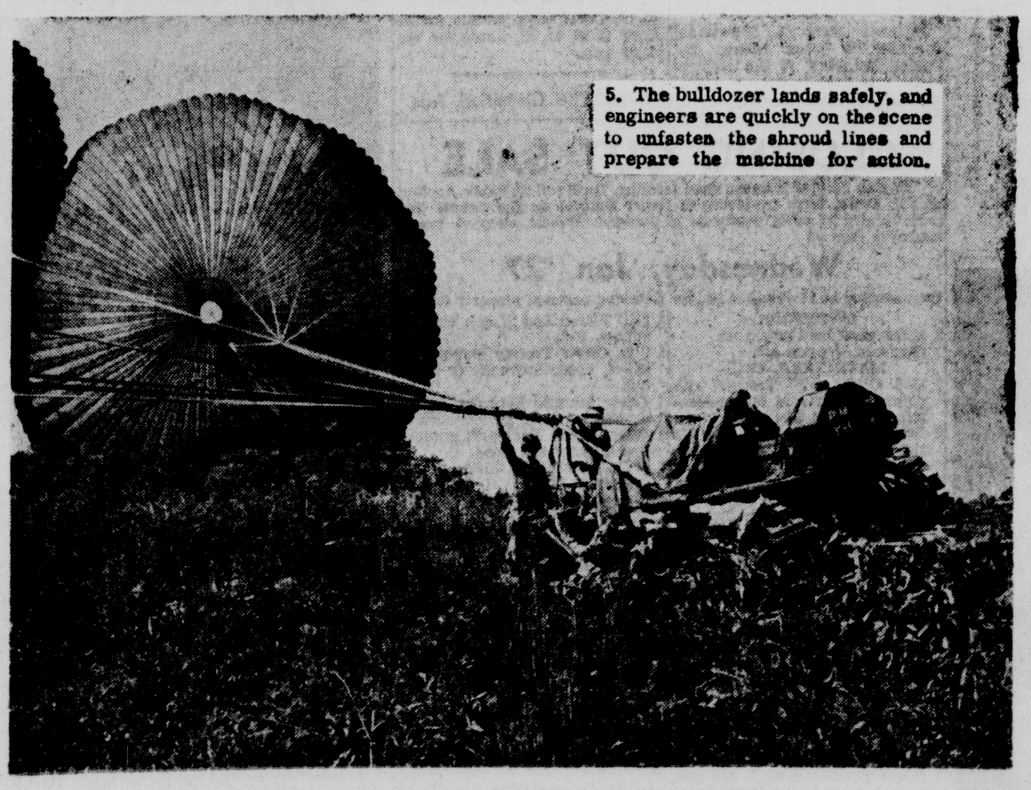
It rained bulldozers recently at Camp Breckenridge, Ky. They were part of 22 monster loads of heavy equipment parachuted to engineers of the 101st Airborne Division. Their mission: to build a 2,500 foot airstrip. They accomplished it in 52 hours.

The drop, first successful one in American military history, also included dump trucks, graders and jeeps. Each made the descent via six parachutes, 100 feet wide. From dozens of planes, 333 engineers jumped ahead of the equipment. By early afternoon, the engineers had cleared away enough ground so that the airstrip's pattern was clearly visible.

Exercise Ranger Bulldozer, the name given the drop, did not mean an added airstrip for the military base. The engineers dismantled it later.

Maj. Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, division commander, said afterwards that "we knew it could be done. Now we know we can do it." He said such drops would be invaluable to infantry units that had captured a remote outpost or set up a base in a foreign land. He also predicted it would have a future impact on the civilian economy, too.

"The possibilities of dropping heavy building equipment into virgin territory — Africa, South America, anywhere — are unlimited," he added.



5. The bulldozer lands safely, and engineers are quickly on the scene to unfasten the shroud lines and prepare the machine for action.

6. Four bulldozers which had been parachuted from the skies start moving earth on a 2500-foot long airstrip.

7. A C-123 troop transport plane lands on the airstrip which did not exist 52 hours before it set down.

Anniversary Review

10 Years Ago A Band Of Robbers Staged History's Richest Holdup, Brink's Robbery

Editor's Note—Exactly 10 years ago, a brazen band of robbers staged the richest holdup in the annals of U.S. crime. Had it not been for an argument inside the gang, they might have gotten away with it. Here's an anniversary review of a classic holdup and an up-to-date report on the crime's lingering, violent aftermath.

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY

BOSTON (AP) — Five men worked late into the night in the heavily barred second-floor offices of the big armored car garage on Prince Street in Boston's North End.

They were handling millions of dollars in cash and securities, routinely packaging fat bundles of bills and payrolls in preparation for the next day's deliveries by Brink's, Inc. to banks, investment houses and business offices.

Secure in a cage-like room formed by a heavy wire screen and with six locked doors between them and the street, the men had taken off their sidearms.

Suddenly there came a hoarse bark: "Open up!"

"This is a stickup—don't make trouble."

With pistols aimed through the wire partition stood a group of men, identically dressed in dark trousers, navy-type pea jackets, chauffeur-style caps and grotesque rubber Halloween masks.

It was exactly 7:10 p.m. One of the Brink's men opened the locked door in the cage. The bandits quickly tied the workers, silenced them with adhesive tape over their mouths and forced them to lie face down on the floor.

They produced heavy canvas bags and began stuffing them with bundles of cash and securities.

Twenty minutes later the building was quiet again—even quieter than before, with the only sounds the trussed Brink's men struggling to free themselves.

By 7:37 p.m. one succeeded and hit the alarm which started one of the biggest, longest and most costly manhunts in history.

The loot that winter night 10 years ago Jan. 17 was $1,218,211.29 in cash—the biggest cash haul in the history of U.S. crime. The loot included another $1,557,183.83 in checks, bonds and securities. Some of the latter were negotiable.

Fantastic as was the robbery, the full story of how it was planned and carried out was even more fabulous.

That story was told finally by one of the men who planned it and carried it out, for there was no honor among these thieves.

Why did he tell?

Joseph J. (Specs) O'Keefe sang because his pals first gypped him of most of his share of the loot and then imported a hired gunman to silence him when he complained. The hired gun failed, although he came close. O'Keefe escaped a hail of machine-gun slugs with only a wrist injury.

From the witness stand in Suffolk Superior Court in 1956, O'Keefe told how the gang — which numbered 11 men — cased the joint for months. Finally they made the first move. The watchman's rounds had been timed, and when the gang was sure of a period when an outside door would not be tried, they picked the lock.

Now came the slickest part of the plan. They took the outside lock right out of the door and had a key made—returning the lock before it was missed. They did the same with other locks inside the building over a period of many months. That's how they were able to walk in so quietly and surprise the Brink's men at work.

After the robbery the gang drove to the home of a member. The money bags were unloaded quickly — simply heaved over a hedge and left for the time being. The truck was dismantled and junked.

The gang found the loot too much to count the night they got it. And they were in a hurry. It wouldn't do for them to be caught together. All had criminal records. Nearly all were questioned in succeeding months by police investigators.

Three years after the robbery all but one of the gang were called before a federal grand jury which conducted an investigation on the eve of the expiration of the three-year U.S. statute of limitations. The detectives were very close to the truth they could not, at that time, prove. They were unable to obtain indictments.

Then O'Keefe got into a jam in Pennsylvania. Caught with a loaded pistol, he was sentenced to a prison term.

When O'Keefe got out and came home to demand his share of some of the undivided money, the abortive attempt was made on his life.

O'Keefe went to jail again in Massachusetts on a gun charge in 1955, and after many months finally confessed the Brink's job.

On Jan. 12, 1956, the FBI rounded up eight of the men. Two others were grabbed later.

With O'Keefe as the state's star witness, the eight men were tried later that year. All eight were convicted and were sentenced to life terms in state prison. They still are appealing.

O'Keefe, who pleaded guilty to the robbery charges, still is in jail awaiting sentencing. That probably will be delayed as long as the eight convicted men have any chance to appeal.

The eight men doing life are: Henry Baker, 52, of Natick; Adolph (Jazz) Maffie, 47, of Quincy; Joseph F. McGinnis, 55, of Boston; Vincent J. Costa, 44, of Pembroke; Michael V. Geagan, 50, of Milton; Anthony Pino, 51, of Boston; Thomas F. Richardson, 51, of Weymouth, and James I. Fagherty, 47, of Boston.

Elmer (Trigger) Burke, the New York gunmen imported to silence O'Keefe, was arrested on a charge of possessing a machine gun the day after the failure of his attempt on O'Keefe's life.

What happened to the loot?

The checks and securities simply disappeared, probably destroyed by the gang members.

Nearly all the cash was split among them—about $100,000 each. None of that ever was recovered.

Jefferson First Grade Pupils In PTA Program

The Jefferson grade school P.T.A. held its first regular meeting of 1960 on Tuesday, Jan. 12. Parents and friends were greeted by teachers as they visited the classrooms from 7:10 to 7:30 p.m. to view samples of art work, science projects, and other displays of class-work.

The meeting was opened at 7:30 p.m. with the pledge to the flag, led by Mrs. Darwin Ronat, president. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. Enneth Miner. Miss Margaret Faye Hopper, treasurer, reported that the expenditues for December consisted of the Christmas treat, tree, and lights for the tree.

Oliver Buck, principal, emphasized the importance of the next P.T.A. meeting to be held Tuesday, Feb. 9. The program at that time will be presented by a group from the Board of Education and the Superintendent of School's office. He urged everyone to attend.

An attendance count of parents present was taken with mothers counting one point and fathers, two points. Mrs. McNeely's room won the attendance award by a wide margin.

Mrs. McNeely's first grade students presented a delightful rhythm band demonstration. They were accompanied by Miss Prevelos at the piano.

Mrs. Dean Smith, program chairman, presented Mrs. Alvahlee McCarthy, teacher at Jefferson and world traveler, who gave an interesting talk on "Alaska and Hawaii, Our Newest States." She illustrated her talk with colored slides she had taken while touring these areas.

Coffee and homemade doughnuts were served during the social hour which followed the program.

CONVENTIONS WILL BE BIGGER THAN EVER—Politicians will politick and orators will orate before more delegates than ever when the Republicans and Democrats hold their 1960 presidential nominating conventions in July. The Democratic reapportionment, designed to reflect population growth and the strength of the party in particular states, shows an increase of 149 over delegate numbers in 1956. When they gather in Los Angeles, each state will have at least one more vote than it had in 1956. The biggest gains are in New York (98 to 114) and California (68 to 81). On the other hand, the Republicans meeting in Chicago, have decided on a modest overall increase of 10. Twenty-two additional votes have been spread among several states, 12 votes taken from others. Each party requires a simple majority of its delegates to nominate a candidate. For the Democrats the magic number is 761; for the Republicans, 667. Chicago will host the GOP for the 14th time, while Los Angeles welcomes its first convention. All eyes will be on the cities as campaign fever hits the U.S

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week continued to reel backward, cutting losses only slightly on a mild recovery.

The decline on average matched that of the week ended Oct. 24 which was the steepest weekly decline since the week ended Sept. 19.

The selloff wiped out most of December's advance and brought losses running to 4 or more points for key issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 16.05 to 659.68.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $3.60 to $226.60, exceeded most recently only by the fall of $5.30 in the week ended Sept. 19.

Tight money remained the dominating market influence, brokers said, and Wall Street was reflecting the worldwide trend toward higher interest rates.

Trading activity was centering more and more on very low-priced issues. This reflected the appetite for speculative trading vehicles, rather than solid investment demand, and was regarded by most market analysts as a bad sign.

Volume for the week slipped to 17,680,696 shares from 18,027,086 the week before when the market also declined.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

Fairbanks Whitney, up 1⅞ at 11 on 743,100 shares; Hupp Corp. off ½ at 11½; A. J. Industries, up 1½ at 6⅛; Graham-Paige, up ⅜ at 3¼; General Motors, off 2¾ at 51⅞.

The five most active on the American Stock Exchange were: Anacon Lead, up 3-16 at ⅞; Israel-American Oil, up ⅛ at 1⅜; Nuclear Corp. of America, up ⅜ at 3⅛; Silver Creek Precision, up ⅛ at 2; and Occidental Petroleum, up ¼ at 6¾.

Bonds moved within a relatively narrow range, winding up with small plus and minus signs. Volume was $27,722,000 par value compared with $32,803,000 the week before.

WEEK'S GRAINS SHOW LITTLE PRICE CHANGE

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Influences in the grain futures market were scarce and minor this week with price shifts in most pits limited to small ranges.

Transactions generally were guided by technical considerations and long range views which the trade calls the statistical outlook. Technical considerations include such distressing possibilities as being short in the market when longs are reaping the profits and vice versa.

In an almost stationary market, speculative traders particularly jump back and forth frequently as they re-appraise factors expected to influence prices over both the long and short term.

That was the puzzle confronting the trade generally throughout most of the week as one factor after another passed without any significant effect.

The long-awaited government report of the stocks of grains on farms as of Jan. 1 did little to or for either side of the market.

Snowfall, usually a bearish factor, hit a large area of the Great Plains where the winter wheat crop had been described as needing moisture and in danger of being blown out. Again prices scarcely budged.

One bit of news struck a jolting blow, though. It was a report Commodity Credit Corp. sold about 1½ million bushels of loan-defaulted soybeans. It brought out general selling which cut deeply into an accumulation of stop loss liquidation and took nearly all soybean months down as much as two cents in one day.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1½ cents a bushel lower on old crop contracts to ½ cent higher on 1960 crop months, March $2.02¾-⅝; corn ⅝ higher to ½ lower, March $1.14¾-⅞; oats unchanged to 1⅛ higher, March 77¼; rye ¼-2 cents lower, March $1.28⅜-½; soybeans 2-3 cents lower, January $2.13⅞-14⅛.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — The butcher hog market continued its higher trend this week and completed recovery of price setbacks extending over a period of almost two months.

With additional gains of 50 cents to $1.00 on all barrows and gilts, the top price climbed to $13.75 a hundredweight on two days, the highest since the middle of November and up as much as $2.00 since the yearend when it hit a four-year low.

The strength was credited to a smaller supply here, 45,000 head compared with 52,500 last week, and a firmer market for wholesale pork cuts.

The market for slaughter steers ranged from 50 cents lower on the average choice grade and below scaling more than 1,250 lbs to 75 cents higher on better grades.

More than 60 per cent of the supply graded choice and at weights somewhat heavier than in recent weeks. Offerings of all grades and classes increased about 5 per cent from a week ago.

The sheep supply on sale was slightly smaller and prices of slaughter lambs advanced as much as $1.00 with most of the gain on the good grade and below. Improved prices for dressed lambs also was a strengthening influence.

Mitchell Blasts Machine Tactics

candidate has an equal chance."

The slate endorsed by the state committee last week is headed by Judge Otto Kerner of Cook County who addressed the federation earlier Saturday. State Treasurer Joseph D. Lohman, who like Mitchell is seeking his party's nomination on his own hook, also addressed the federation Saturday.

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn) raised a national issue when he told the federation the country would make "a perfectly enormous mistake" if it elects Vice President Richard M. Nixon president.

Lohman attacked both the regular Democratic state organization and the Republican administration of Gov. Stratton, who is seeking an unprecedented third consecutive term.

"Mere substitution of one machine for another will not solve the burning issues of the state, such as the archaic tax structure, abortive personnel policies, failing welfare institutions and the lag in public and higher education," he said.

Lohman, like Mitchell, declared the state committee's slate was dictated by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, head of the party in Cook County.

In his address to the DFI, Judge Kerner generally shied away from sharp political issues and ranged over the subject of what good government should be. In his only reference to the brewing primary tussle, he said:

"I understand that some of you here favor another candidate, and I just want to tell you that the great thing about the Democratic Party is that we can all get together after the primary and work for a victory in November."

In a rare bit of togetherness, Kerner, Lohman and Mitchell all three faced newsmen simultaneously after attending a luncheon of the Independent Voters of Illinois. Each was asked for his views on identical questions about state government and political issues.

The DFI Sunday morning will face the issue of whether to endorse one of the three candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor. One federation spokesman indicated a possible move to ban endorsement of any candidate.

Michael Haas of Belleville, who describes himself as a Mitchell supporter, is federation president and will seek the job again.

The DFI represents about 80 local clubs which claim 4,500 members. The clubs and the DFI are separate from regular state and local Democratic Party organizations.

results," the vice president said.

However, he steered clear of attacks on Democratic leaders.

He said he has high respect for Kennedy and remarked that most of the Democratic presidential hopefuls appear well-versed on international and domestic issues and described former President Harry S. Truman as a strong leader in some respects.

Nixon said he backed the administration policy of refusing to pledge a halt to underground nuclear tests unless there is assurance the Soviet Union also will stop them.

"We must reserve the right to resume tests if we are convinced a chance for satisfactory inspection system no longer exists," he declared.

Nixon, who delivered a lecture billed as nonpolitical at the University of Florida at Gainesville Friday night, conferred with Florida Republican leaders after his news conference.

He said he believed the GOP would have a 50-50 chance of carrying Florida if the election were held now.

"It's one state in the Southern bloc states where I think we have a chance. We serve notice to our Democratic friends that they can't assume Florida will be in the bag."

Florida has an overwhelmingly Democratic voter registration but was carried by Eisenhower in the last presidential election.

Notre Dame Triumphs, 75-56

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's basketball Irish pulled away in the last 10 minutes Saturday afternoon in a 75-56 victory over St. Francis of Pennsylvania, playing its second game in 18 hours.

St. Francis brought an 8-2 record to the Midwest but also was defeated Friday night at Kentucky Wesleyan 96-82.

Notre Dame led only 50-48 with 9:57 to play. Then a fielder by Mike Graney and two by Emmett McCarthy gave the Irish a working margin and they racked up their 11th victory against three defeats.

McCarthy topped Notre Dame scorers with 20 points and Graney added 16. Mickey Bekalja came off the bench late in the first half and contributed 16. St. Francis' Joe Ashton was high man of the game with 25.

The score was tied three times and the lead changed twice in the first five minutes. Bill Crosby's set shot gave Notre Dame a 14-12 lead and it never trailed afterward.

Evidence Shows Passengers Of Airliner Sensed Danger

NEW YORK (AP) — Were the plane passengers gripped by agonizing, paralyzing fear in those last few minutes?

Did they sense death lurking ahead in the rainy darkness?

Perhaps they were never aware of anything amiss. But if they were, did they respond to the situation with shattering panic or with calm courage, trusting in the veteran plane crew to save them somehow?

No one can say now. All the 29 passengers and 5 crew members aboard the National Airlines DC6B are dead.

There is, however, considerable evidence to indicate that passengers and crew alike knew something was wrong—terribly wrong. Seemingly too they had reason to believe that a crash landing was in prospect, perhaps in the Atlantic.

What was it like, on that flight to eternity? These are the known facts:

In the beginning, at New York's Idlewild Airport, there had been some grumbling because of a delay in taking off. There were 105 passengers who had booked passage on a big new Boeing 707 jet.

But the jet was found to have a cracked windshield. To be on the safe side, the airline took it out of service and substituted two smaller craft, a jetprop Electra and a piston-engined DC6B.

The passengers crowded around the ticket counter and were reassigned on a first-come, first-serve basis. Those in a big hurry to get going were put on the Electra, 76 of them.

The 29 others, either in the confusion or from lack of any concern over a fast getaway, straggled along and were sent out to board the DC6B. In three cases, persons assigned to the Electra relinquished their seats and took the DC6B.

One of them may have been Julian Andrew Frank, 32, an attorney with a wife and two children at home in Connecticut. And Frank, according to congressional investigators, may have been carrying a bomb.

It developed later that he was in trouble for alleged shady financial dealings. It also developed that he had insured himself for nearly $900,000.

At any rate, the Electra finally took off shortly after 11 p.m. on Jan. 5, and at 11:51 it was followed by the DC6B.

The passengers settled back comfortably, anticipating the pleasure of a vacation in Florida or profitable business trips.

The steady drone of the four engines hummed a lullaby of the sky. There was no fear, no worry.

It was now 2:31 a.m., Jan. 6. The pilot, Capt. Dale Southard, an expert flier who had been a World War II bomber pilot, switched on his radio transmitter and spoke. "Over Wilmington, 18,000 feet. Next check point 117 miles south of Wilmington, N.C.

"Estimated time 0302 (3:02 a.m.). Gateway next (the check point, 127 miles south of Azalea). On instruments to Colefield."

This was to say that because of weather conditions, Southard had been flying by instrument navigation to the check point before Wilmington.

"In and out. On top for the first time over Carolina Beach."

The plane had been playing hide and seek with the clouds, and now was above the cloud layer.

What happened then? One can only guess. Perhaps it was this judging from parts of the jig-saw being slowly pieced together:

In a few moments a shuddering boom rocked the plane. Passengers snapped upright and began to glance about with startled eyes. They and the two stewardesses quickly perceived that trouble had occurred in or near one of the rest rooms. Possibly the door was blown open into the aisle.

Some may have thought their plane had been struck by another. There was a blast of cold air into the plane. The cabin lost its pressure through a gaping hole in the side.

In the cockpit, the pilot and co-pilot grappled with their controls as their eyes raced over the sweeping panorama of instruments for a clue to the trouble.

They must have been as startled as all the rest aboard. Something was wrong—but what?

When their bodies were found, some passengers were clad in life jackets which would keep them afloat in water. At the point of trouble the plane was just edging out over the Atlantic for the final run to Miami.

Other passengers had fastened their seat belts, the normal procedure when bumpy weather is encountered or when there is the possibility of an emergency landing.

One passenger already may have gone to his death—the Connecticut lawyer—perhaps sucked out into the night through the hole in the plane's side, his body shattered by a bomb blast.

His remains were found at the ocean edge—16 miles from the scene of the crash at the little town of Bollvia, N. C. At another point, some miles from the crash site also, a sheaf of metal from the craft had fallen to the earth.

Still the plane remained aloft, the officers still struggling at the controls and perhaps still unaware of the cause of the grim battle. But time was running out now.

On the ground, in the darkness of the night, the roar of the engines was heard. One listener said they were sputtering off and on.

In seconds more "there was a big boom like dynamite."

A small flame was seen to flicker a moment in a field not far away. Then there was only darkness and quiet.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

One of the longest regular season prep winning streaks in the State came to a halt at Washington Tuesday night as the Panthers came from behind in the last half to stop Toluca 70-62. The win snapped a 37-game regular season winning streak that included 14 straight victories this season. Down 34-31 at halftime, the Panthers came back behind forward Steve Gresham and guard Terry Guedet who each scored 18 points. Toluca's fine sophomore guard, Tom Gardner, scored 31 points.

Larry Krulac, standout eager last season at Lewistown high, is a member of the MacMurray College Highlanders basketball squad. He is the only Freshman starter on the team, and is hitting well in double figures as well as grabbing plenty of rebounds. Krulac, 6 ft. 3 inch standout, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. August Krulac of St. David. Last season Krulac led Lewistown's Indians under Coach Bill Wilson to the championship in the Western high (Macomb) Holiday tourney. He took the most valuable player honors and led his team with 20 points in the title game against the host team.

Rushville high athletes heard Lou Saban, head football coach at Western Illinois University at Macomb, Thursday night at the athletic banquet in honor of the varsity athletes, cheerleaders, team managers and seniors members of the band. The banquet was sponsored by the Rushville Rotary Club and the Rushville Chamber of Commerce. Victor Jackson was the toastmaster and he is a member of both clubs, alumnus of the high school and a former varsity letterman.

Galesburg's strong Silver Streaks have an easy Regional tourney and things will get tougher for them after that, however. They, by winning the Regional, will advance to the Moline sectional grind but they do it without 6-7 all-stater Lawrence "Bumpy" Nixon who turns 19 March 5 and loses his scholastic eligibility under the new IHSA 19-year-old regulation.

The Peoria Spalding regional tourney of 1959 has been shifted to the Trewyn junior high gym and Limestone gests last year's Pekin regional tourney. The fields remain the same and the winners of these two regionals advance to the East Peoria sectional with the winners of the the Farmington and Kewanee regional meets. I predict that the four teams to fight it out for the sectional title will be Kewanee, Canton, Peoria Richwoods and Pekin at East Peoria.

Coaches of the teams in the districts and regionals will their teams and send the ratings to the Illinois High School Association for pairings which the state office will release around the beginning of February. Champions from the East Peoria and Ottawa Sectionals will clash at the first round state finals game at Bradley U. Tuesday, March 15. Districts start February 22; Regionals begin Feb. 29; Sectionals start March 9. The state finals quarter final, semi-final, third place and championship game take place Friand Saturday, March 18 and 19, at the University of Illinois.

The top ten high school basketball players this season downstate in my opinion include the following standouts — Bogie Redmon, Collinsville; Jerry Sloan, McLeansboro; Don Brooks, East St. Louis; Bill Edwards, Windsor; Bernie Gray, Bridgeport; Jerry Wright, Danville; Ed Bigham, Pinckneyville; Lawrence "Bumpy" Nixon, Galesburg; Andy Hankins, Waukegan, and John Love, Ottawa. The second ten top players are Stan McAfoos, Alton; Gary Storm, Shelbyville; Keith Law, Kankakee; Fred Riddle, Collinsville; Roger Paluska, Peoria Richwoods; Lee Pelham, Springfield; Phil Wagner, Rich Township (Park Forest); Jim Fudoli, Litchfield; Brad Parker, Greenville; and Dave Roach, Pinckneyville.

Athletic director Merle E. Crosby of Robinson high school wants to fill an open date in his football chart for next season. He is looking for a football opponent on October 21 for his Robinson eleven.

AMERICANS FALTER IN HAHNENKAMM

KITZBUEHEL, Austria (AP) — Short, stocky Adrien Duvillard, never a winner in an important international meet before, led the way with a victory in the downhill Saturday in the 21st annual Hahnenkamm races.

American hopes in this dress rehearsal for next month's Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., dipped lower.

Penny Pitou, top U.S. women's hope for Olympic medals, suffered an upset by Austria's Traudl Hecher, an unknown teen-ager, in the downhill.

The U.S. men's team, its Olympic chances wiped out by last month's injury to Bud Werner, could do no better than a 41st place finish by Max Marolt.

Duvillard, 25, was timed in 2 minutes, 26.1 seconds.

Nellie Fox of the Chicago White Sox mode 187 hits in the American League in 1959. In 1958 he collected 196 hits.

The 38th annual Winchester Tournament, the oldest invitational meet of its kind in the state, swings into action Monday night with the defending Wildcats favored to repeat as champs. Two games are on tap each evening with starting times at seven o'clock and 8:30 p.m. The same starting times will prevail for the consolation and championship contests Friday night. The one big difference in the tournament status this year is that it will be played in the new grade school gymnasium, the present site for all Winchester home games.

The teams are seeded by the coaches in this order: Winchester, 1st; Triopia, 2nd; Bluffs, 3rd; Roodhouse, 4th; Carrollton, 5th; White Hall, 6th; Griggsville, 7th; Greenfield, 8th; Franklin, 9th, and East Pike, 10th. Coach Jack Renfro's Wildcats could reap the same honors they garnered last season when they captured titles in the Illinois Valley Tournament and the Winchester playoff. They already have achieved half their goal by winning the Valley affair during the holidays. The Wildcats are sporting a 12 win, two loss mark for the year. Two other teams that rate strong consideration for the crown are Glenn Ambler's Triopia Trojans and George Danhaus' Bluffs Bluejays. Both clubs have fine records and each seems to be getting better with each passing game. The meet should provide some upsets before the final horn sounds Friday night.

Thursday night the Bob Winsteads and the Spotts journeyed to Springfield to attend the testimonial dinner for Mitch Shadid and it was a very enjoyable evening. Shadid, who is affectionately called 'Mr. Baseball' by Little League followers in and around Springfield, was honored by 200 persons for his promotion of the Little League program which covers 22 league teams in District III. Although he retired to devote more time to his book store, Mitch will continue to serve as an adviser and aide in the Springfield program. Shadid was presented a wrist watch from the District teams and given an official proclamation from Mayor Lester Collins. The honored guest is a nephew of John Shadid of this city.

— o —

In addition to enjoying the chicken dinner, a-la-family style, and the tributes paid to Mitch, I really enjoyed Ron Gibbs' talk on 'Pity the Poor Referee'. Gibbs, as you know, is the top man in the professional football officiating ranks and he also rates high as a guest speaker in my book. Gibbs, who has been a sports official for 39 years (he's also Sangamon County recorder) recalled humorous incidents in his pro career and also brought in some serious thought in his speech. He said the older folks should set a better example in athletics for the youngsters. If coaches and fans persist in razzing every official that comes along, then the younger athletes will do it as they believe it is part of the game. Gibbs read a few of the letters fans had sent him over a period of years and most of them branded him a crook and that he should be on the Bears' and Colts' payrolls.

He read the only nice letter a fan had ever sent him and he treasured it. The letter went something like this: Ronnie Gibbs, I'm an avid football fan and you are the best official I've ever watched. You are fearless in your decisions and you always have complete charge of your game. The letter went on like this and then at the bottom there was a P.S. which said: Please excuse the crayon as I'm not allowed any sharp instruments! And nowadays that seems to be the only type of person who doesn't hate an official. Gibbs said the people in Chicago have us officials all wrong. He said we've got fathers just like anyone else.

Sportrait salutes forward George Trutter of Routt this week. The six-foot, 185 pound senior is averaging 14 points a game and is giving Coach Bob Winstead's crew a valuable assist under the boards. Trutter came to Routt as a freshman from Farmersville and he began his sports career at Routt the same time Winstead embarked on his coaching career. George is playing his third year of varsity ball and Winstead rates him the best driver he's ever coached. The Rockets, who own a 14 win, three loss record, beat Chandlerville last Tuesday and are idle until this Friday when they play host to ISD in a PMSC tilt. The Rocket JV squad gets a warmup however when they entertain St. Mary's of Mt. Sterling varsity team Wednesday night with a preliminary game at 6:45 p.m.

Galesburg Defeated By Unranked Macomb, Kankakee Also Loses

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)— Top-ranked Galesburg, playing without three regulars, was defeated by unranked Macomb 61-60 Friday night in downstate Illinois prep basketball action.

Argo, another unranked giant killer, upset ninth-ranked Kankakee 51-46 to remain unbeaten in 11 tests.

It was the first loss of the season for the Galesburg Streaks, ranked first on the Associated Press poll of outstanding downstate teams since the season's first poll Dec. 15.

Galesburg starters Bumpy Nixon, Ralph Cannon and Jeff Sandburg had been ruled ineligible for Friday night's game and Saturday's game against Sterling. The three mainstays become eligible again next week.

The win settled an old score for the Macomb forces which lost the season's opener to the Streaks 63-42. Macomb has an over-all 8-4 record.

Galesburg had run up a record of nine wins for the season, playing the fewest number of games among the first 10 ranked teams.

It was the second setback for the Kankakee five, giving them an 11-2 slate.

Peoria Richwoods celebrated its second week on the ranked list with a 61-60 triumph over the Pekin Chinks. It was the 12th win for the Richwood quintet which has lost once. Richwoods climbed from the 15th spot to seventh ranking this week while the Chinks slumped from sixth to 14th.

It was the second successive loss for Pekin, defeated by Eisenhower last week.

Fourth-ranked Rock Island edged Moline 68-63 for its 12th win against one loss.

Collinsville remained undefeated by beating Wood River 50-36. It was the 12th straight win for the Collinsville five, ranked second among downstate teams with designs on the state title and the third successive loss for Wood River. The Wood River five was branded the unluckiest team in the Southwestern Conference after twice losing games in double overtimes last weekend.

Pinckneyville ran up 95 points against Anna-Jonesboro which scored only 31, to notch its 13th win. Pinckneyville is ranked fifth.

Sparta, the only team to beat the Pincks this season, lost to Carbondale 50-44.

Proviso East, ranked sixth, downed New Trier 70-40 for win No. 10.

Undefeated and eighth-ranked Decatur won by a seven-point edge, beating Danville 72-65. It was the second loss in a row for the Danville five which lost by one point to Springfield last weekend.

Springfield's Senators ran their string to 10-2 with a 45-40 victory over Mattoon. Springfield, the defending state champs, clings to the 10th spot among ranked teams despite losses to Decatur and Collinsville.

SLOCUM AWARD TO LOPEZ

NEW YORK (AP)— Al Lopez, who led the Chicago White Sox to their first pennant in 40 years, has been voted the Bill Slocum Award "for meritorious service to baseball over the years" by the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America.

The 51-year-old Lopez will share honors with Nellie Fox, White Sox second baseman, who will receive the Sid Mercer Award as "player of the year," and with Ty Cobb, who will receive a special award for his achievements on the diamond over a long period of years.

Blueboys Bow To McKendree, 78-63

The Illinois College Blueboys lost their third game in a row and their sixth of nine encounters to a fine running, shooting Bearcat quintet of McKendree College 78-63. The Blueboys were never within 10 points after the first 6 minutes as the McKendree team treated the fans to a fine exhibition of both fast break and possession brand of hardcourt activity.

McKendree received good balanced scoring as four of the first five scored in the double figures. Willie Williams and Bill Roberts paced the Bearcats with 19 apiece. Jerry Johnson was the Blueboys' chief offensive threat with 16.

The IC team started out as if they would make a real game of it and led 8-6 with 4 minutes gone when the Bearcats started to turn on the speed and really displayed a potent fast break. McKendree immediately moved into a 21-10 lead with 11 minutes remaining in the first stanza. Both teams traded baskets for the remainder of that period and Johnson picked up a 3 point play at the gun to move the Blueboys into a 7 point deficit at the half, 41-34.

The Bearcats ran into foul trouble in the second half as 3 of their first five picked up four fouls and with 14 minutes remaining in the game and leading by 15 points they switched from their fast break to a slow, deliberate, possession style of play. This strategy was completely successful as the Bearcats shot an amazing 57% from the field the second and final period and brought their average for the game up to a very creditable 49%. The Blueboys, meanwhile, had their difficulties finding the range and ended up with a mark of 32%.

McKendree now leads the conference with a 4-0 mark and the Blueboys are in third place with a 3-2.

The box score:

| McKendree | FG | FT | TP |

| Roberts | 6 | 7 | 19 |
| Williams | 8 | 5 | 19 |

Jerry Barber Captures Lead In Yorba Open, Fairfield Cards A 71

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

YORBA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — Veteran Jerry Barber of Los Angeles took the lead in the $20,000 Yorba Linda Open Golf Tournament Saturday, shooting a 70 for his second successive sub-par round and a mid-way mark of 137.

Barber, 43, a former regular on the tournament circuit but now primarily a teaching pro, toured the par 36-36—72 Yorba Linda Country Club course in 35-35—70.

One stroke back was Jack Burke Jr., of Klamesha Lake, N.Y., who wound up with a 68 for 138.

Tied at 139 were Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., with a 72, and Harry Weetman, a member of the British Ryder Cup team five times, with a 71.

Scores of 146 and under for 36 holes qualified for the final two rounds as the field was trimmed to 60 and ties.

Biggest shock was the failure of Gene Littler to survive the cut. Littler had 73-74—147. It was the first time he had failed to qualify since the Pensacola Open last March.

Tony Lema, the surprise leader in the first round with a 66, wound up with a 75 for 141.

Tied at 140, three strokes off the pace, were Dow Finsterwald, winner of the Los Angeles Open last Tuesday, who had a 69; Don Fairfield, 71; and Lionel Hebert and Bo Wininger, with 72s.

Bradley Braves Edge Top-Ranked Cincinnati

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Bradley's Braves rallied in the second half to edge previously undefeated Cincinnati 91-90 Saturday night despite Oscar Robertson's record-breaking 46 points.

Cincinnati, the nation's No. 1 team, led 47-44 at halftime before Alpha Saunders, Bobby Joe Mason and Chet Walker turned the tide for the Braves in the second half.

Late in the game Cincinnati led 88-87 when Walker drove in for a layup to score and make it 89-88 for Bradley with 38 seconds left.

Robertson, who set a Robertson Fieldhouse record, had the ball and was pivoting for a shot when he stepped out of bounds.

Bradley took over and with 13 seconds left Carl Bouldin fouled Mike Owens who dropped in a pair of free throws to clinch the victory.

Bradley thus avenged its only defeat this season, an 86-71 loss at Cincinnati. Bradley, ranked fourth nationally, has a 12-1 record and Cincinnati is 13-1.

Bradley's trio of Walker, Saunders and Mason more than offset Robertson's scoring spree. Walker scored 28 points, Saunders 22 and Mason 21.

It was Bradley's 31st consecutive victory on its home floor.

Cincinnati controlled the boards and outrebounded Bradley 46-27 but Bradley had an edge in shooting percentage .550 to the Bearcats' .500.

The loss was Villanova's first in 11 outings.

West also grabbed 14 rebounds and handled his season high of nine assists to lead West Virginia to its 40th straight home victory in four years and its 15th decision in 16 games this season.

Except for four ties early in the game and a 13-11 Villanova lead, the Mountaineers were in command all the way.

DECATUR—Coach Joe Venturi's St. Teresa Bulldogs extended Jacksonville High's losing streak to ten straight with a 78-68 decision here Saturday night. The win was the seventh for the Bulldogs against seven defeats.

Although it was the highest score they've chalked up so far this season, the Crimsons couldn't match St. Teresa under the boards. JHS managed to stay on even terms with the Bulldogs in the first period but costly mistakes soon took its toll on the losers in the remaining three quarters.

Rampaging Highlanders Crush Lewis Five, 75-62

The MacMurray College Highlanders handed the Flyers of Lewis College a solid 75-62 defeat Saturday night at the MacMurray fieldhouse. The win gives the clan a 10-4 record for the season. Lewis has won 9 and lost 4.

MacMurray's Marv Hohenberger dumped in the first basket of the game, and gave the clan the lead which they never relinquished throughout the entire first half. The Scotsmen, paced by Larry Krulac who got 12 points in the half, and Hohenberger who dumped in 10, maintained a three to eight point advantage throughout the period. Lewis finally cut it to one with seconds remaining, and MacMurray led at the half 38-37.

Lewis jumped ahead at the start of the second half, and took a 45-41 lead in three minutes. Then the Highlanders, led by the hot shooting of Ron Price and Gary Little, and the rebounding of freshman Krulac, managed to move to a 52-47 lead after five minutes. The rest of the game saw MacMurray steadily increase its lead as they went on to win by 13 with Highlander Coach Bill Wall clearing his bench at the one minute mark.

Gary Little of Jacksonville led the clan's scoring with 20 tallies, and he was followed by Krulac with 18. Don Danz and Al Latham were the big men in Lewis column with 18 each. Krulac's 17 rebounds were a big factor in the MacMurray victory as was the much improved defensive play of the entire squad.

The win puts the Highlanders high in contention for the independent berth in the NAIA small college playoffs. Lewis was last year's independent entry.

The clan now takes a two-week rest over semester exams before returning to action February 5 against Rockhurst College there. Lewis' next contest is with Illinois State Normal University January 29.

Van Brocklin, QB For East, Down With Flu

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Norm Van Brocklin, who was to quarterback the East in Sunday's pro bowl game, is down with the flu.

His physician Saturday pronounced him a doubtful starter.

Bobby Layne of the Pittsburgh Steelers was named to replace the old pro from the Philadelphia Eagles if he can't make the game.

Also hit by the flu was another East starter—offensive guard Jim Ray Smith. It's doubtful he'll play, either.

Ernie Stautner, normally a defensive regular with the Steelers, was named to replace Smith.

The two key illnesses are expected to make the underdog East team a little more so. The West was favored by 3½ points before Van Brocklin and Smith went on the sick list.

Van Brocklin and Smith were the only players on either team who missed Saturday's workouts. A flu epidemic has been sweeping Southern California and much of the West. Coaches for both teams in the charity classic said everyone else looked tip top.

Kickoff time for the nationally televised game (NBC) is 1 p.m.

A crowd of more than 50,000 is expected at Memorial Coliseum. Bright, sunny weather is predicted, with the temperature in the low 60s.

Roman Colonel Captures Royal Poinciana Race

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Roman Colonel displayed his blistering speed for an opening day crowd of 25,033 at Hialeah Park Saturday, winning the $29,850 Royal Poinciana Handicap for his seventh straight triumph.

Roman Colonel ran six furlongs under a burden of 130 pounds in 1:09 1-5, only 1-5 slower than the track record and defeated Fred W. Hooper's Alhambra by a head. Claiborne Farms Dunce was third and Calumet Farm's Kentucky Pride finished fourth in the field of seven sprinters.

Roman Colonel, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wartman of Caseyville, Ill., earned $18,852.50 and paid $4.10, $3.20 and $2.60 in the $2 mutuel.

The four-year-old son of Ky Colonel out of Roman Grace by Roman, made it five stakes in a row and continued undefeated in Florida, having won three at Tropical Park earlier this winter.

"This was his toughest race with all that weight up," said Roman Colonel's regular rider, Jesse C. Cook. "Alhambra broke better and I just took back off him early. I thought I was going to win it a furlong from home."

The crowd was Hialeah's biggest opening day turnout since Jan. 17, 1946 and the second largest in the 33-year history of the track.

The race was televised nationally by NBC.

NFL To Name Commissioner At Meeting

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League opens one of its most important meetings at Miami Beach Wednesday with election of a commissioner and the vital problem of expansion heading the agenda.

Election of a commissioner to succeed the late Bert Bell probably will be the first order of business. Bell died last Oct. 11. The battle over expansion between the forces of Washington owner George Preston Marshall and Chicago Bears' owner George Halas figures to come later with a permanent commissioner on deck to arbitrate.

Of many names mentioned in recent weeks as possible successors to Bell, present acting commissioner, Austin H. Gunsel, seems to lead the field.

The subject of expansion seems sure to produce fireworks. Marshall, determined opponent of any effort to increase the 12 team league to 13 or 14 teams, already is in Miami and last week fired the first shot in the battle. He said NFL expansionists are only trying to destroy the new American Football League. He promised to carry the issue to court if necessary.

Halas, like Marshall a veteran pro football executive, is in the opposite corner and according to an informal vote in Philadelphia after Bell's funeral, has the owners with him. The Chicago owner would admit Dallas and Minneapolis-St. Paul to the NFL. Other cities seeking a franchise are St. Louis and Miami.

★ GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD ★

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A lot of baseball men contend that the slugging Indians should have won the American League pennant last season.

If they don't bounce down in front in 1960, it won't be the fault of the game's foremost wheeler and dealer, Frank Lane.

To fully appreciate the tremendous job the indefatigable Lane has turned in in Cleveland, you only have to compare the mangy infield the trader inherited when he assumed command of the front office in the winter of 1957-58 with the one which will train in Tucson this spring.

The leaky infield was composed of Vic Wertz, Bobby Avila, Chico Carrasquel and Billy Harrell. Vic Power, Johnny Temple, Woody Held and Bubba Phillips now comprise an infield second to none in the business. Wertz and Avila now are strictly part-time major league employees. Carrasquel was signed by the White Sox the other day after being released by the Orioles. Harrell is in Triple A ball.

Temple, one of the superior second basemen with a seven-year National League batting average of .288, could be the carburetor the Tribe required.

Lane believed he had the wrapping for a prize package in Billy Martin, but there simply wasn't enough room even in the huge Municipal Stadium for Billy the Kid and Joe Gordon.

* * *

"We did better when Martin was in there," recalled Lane, between telephone calls. "Proof of this was that we didn't fare as well after Martin's jaw was fractured in Washington in late August. But Gordon, who played the position so well that he should know a second baseman when he sees one, rated Martin as nothing more than a mouthy guy without ability. Anyway, it was either Gordon or Martin and I had already decided on the manager."

Lane might have added that he already had changed his mind about the manager, having given Gordon a quick reprieve after firing him last fall.

Lane didn't get the accomplished Temple for nothing, and the incompatibility of Gordon and Lane actually set up the deal which could spell the first flag a Lane-supervised outfit has won in the Trader's 11 years as a general manager. As the frustrated Milwaukee Braves know so well, a club can't obtain a second baseman unless it has one of some stature to exchange. So it was that Martin, Cal McLish and Gordon Coleman, adjudged the finest first basemen in the Southern Association, went to Cincinnati in the Temple transaction.

* * *

It is difficult to imagine the changes Lane has made in the Indians in a cyclonic two years, during which time he has engineered no fewer than 25 swaps.

A club can't buy ballplayers, so Lane does the next best thing. He lands them in trades and has the happy knack of knowing what it takes to win.

The Indians required a third baseman and a right-hand hitting catcher to alternate with the left-hand batting Russ Nixon. He landed them from the White Sox in Phillips and Johnny Romano.

Lane gave up the thoroughly established Minnie Minoso and Cal McLish, a 19-game winner. Minoso, 37, was Frantic Frankie's meal ticket in Chicago and Cleveland for nine years. McLish, 34, has pitched professionally for 16 years.

"I'd rather trade a year too early than too late," explained Frank Lane, who learned from Branch Rickey to swap a combatant while you can get someone for him. "Remember when they used to say, 'They never die on the Cardinals.'

"Well, they're not going to die on the Indians as long as Frank Lane is around."

SAFETY WILL BE EMPHASIZED at all sessions of 4-H tractor schools to be held throughout Illinois this winter.

4-H leaders, farm advisers and assistant farm advisers were in Jacksonville Wednesday to attend a one day clinic for volunteer leaders who will conduct the schools. Counties sending leaders to the clinic, which was held at the Farm Bureau, were Brown, McDonough, Morgan, Sangamon and Schuyler.

The school was conducted by George Daigh, Illinois 4-H staff; Wendell Bowers, U.I. agriculture engineer, and representatives of the Standard Oil Co., which sponsors the 4-H tractor program.

The first picture shows a demonstration on "What Makes A Tractor Run," given by Ronald Schemmer, junior 4-H leader from Williamsville, (left) and Harold E. Hembrough, leader of the East Side Juniors of Jacksonville. The model shows how the four cylinders of a four-cycle engine operate. The crank moves the cylinders, and as they go up and down red and white lights indicate the action of the valves. The group present considered it a visual aid of importance in the teaching of future classes.

In the second photo George Daigh, a former assistant farm adviser in Pike county, uses a device to show how a mixture of gasoline behaves when it is introduced to an electric spark. The inside of a piece of galvanized pipe is swabbed with gasoline, the pipe is corked, and when the coil sends the spark—pop, out flies the cork. The interested spectators, from left, are Ken Coles, Macomb; Clark Hiles, Rushville, and Dick DeOrnellas, leader of the North Side Ag club of Jacksonville.

Safety in all phases of tractor operation will be stressed in the schools to be held between now and spring.

"We feel that the prevention of one tractor accident in Illinois is worth all the time and trouble of putting on these annual 4-H schools," asserted Daigh, who presided at the clinic sessions. His auditors nodded their head in agreement and several commented that interest in their local schools ran high immediately after some serious accidents in the community.

This is the 16th year of the 4-H tractor program, which is sponsored by the Standard Oil Foundation and directed by the Extension service. Nationally more than 750,000 youths and 45,000 volunteer leaders have been trained since 1945.

Bob Hayward, assistant farm adviser, announced that the Morgan county school will be held in March.

No Early Settlement Of U. S. Farm Price Policy Battle Seen

The battle over farm price policy which has raged intermittently for almost 40 years does not appear to be headed for any early or easy settlement in the 1960's.

According to Harold G Halcrow, head of the University of Illinois department of agricultural economics, a serious squeeze between lower prices for farm products and higher costs for goods purchased by farmers occurred during the 1950's. This set the stage for farm problems to continue as a major political issue not just in farm areas, but in the nation as a whole. Farm policy looms as one of the major domestic issues in the 1960 national elections.

HAROLD G. HALCROW

Halcrow appraises the current farm situation in this way:

The farm price trends in this country in recent years reflect the changing supply and demand situation in world markets. The rising farm product output around the world has put a continued downward pressure on prices.

The main effect of government price supports in this country has been to hold consumption lower than it would have been without such programs. Farm prices were higher at least from 1952 to 1956 than they would have been if no program had been in effect.

Attempts of farm programs to control output have failed. Production patterns have been changed from the most efficient systems to those with increasing costs. Price supports have also led to subsidizing of exports.

Fewer Farmers?

Substantial readjustment in American agriculture will be needed in the years to come in order to maintain efficient family farm operation and adequate incomes for farm people. Trends in recent years would indicate that the farm population will continue to drop if appropriate adjustments are made.

Public Law 480 has expanded our exports above what they would have been with no price supports and no export subsidies. But it has caused problems in our international relations. Even on its present costly scale, it cannot eliminate surpluses from the domestic market. Expanding this program would be even more costly and would involve other difficulties.

What He Expects

Looking ahead to the 1960's, these agricultural developments seem probable:

The number of farms in 1970 will be less than half the number in 1940.

Production per man will be four or five times as large in 1970 as just before World War II.

The problem of financing adequate-sized family farms will become more important and should receive increasing attention by those who supply capital to agriculture.

Farming will continue to become more specialized as a result of new methods and techniques and greater mechanization. Contract buying of farm products will increase, but the type of vertical integration in the broiler industry will not spread to all segments of agriculture. Contract buying of hogs and cattle according to specification will become more general.

Differences between town and country will become less distinct. Rural people not living on farms now outnumber those who do by a ratio of about five to three. Present trends suggest that earnings of farm people from off-farm sources will increase and within a few years may exceed the net income from farming.

Several features of Illinois agriculture provide a more favorable picture than in some other areas. A relatively strong demand is expected to continue for meat and animal products. Illinois farmers have an economic advantage in producing these products. The St. Lawrence Seaway opening and other factors are stimulating growth in the midwest and suggest continued expansion of local markets.

Farmer Ranks No. 1 As Friend Of U.S. Birds, Small Game

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—If the American of the future is to enjoy small game hunting, he'll have today's farmers to thank.

Advancing civilization — the plowing of land, the spread of suburban developments, and building of new highways, airfields and the like—work to the disadvantage of wildlife such as squirrels, rabbits, quail, pheasants, doves, wild ducks and geese.

Their natural habitat tends to be destroyed by man's activities. But far-sighted farmers are taking steps to correct this. They are adopting measures to conserve wildlife through soil and water conservation practices.

Latest government estimates place the number of cooperating farmers at 1¾ million. For the most part, they are operators who are members of local soil conservation districts. These districts were formed some 20-25 years ago for the primary purpose of combatting soil wastage through wind and water erosion.

New Ways Learned

The spread of these districts to all parts of the country has been accompanied by the development of an art and science of conservation. Specialists have developed a wide range of farming and land-care practices which halt the carryoff of rich topsoil by floods or by winter's winds.

What farmers do now to protect wildlife will determine the extent of such resources in the future. That's because most of the nation's wildlife crop is grown and harvested — through hunting and trapping—on land used mainly for cultivated crops, livestock and wood products.

Much of the fishing likewise is also affected by the way farmers and ranchers manage their land.

Aid to Nesting

There are various practices farmers are adopting to encourage wildlife preservation and increase. One is that of stripcropping cultivated fields. This means that a field is made up of alternate strips of the planted crop and grass or similar cover.

Such fields attract about twice as many nesting birds as undivided fields because stripcropped fields have more edges where food and cover are close together.

Many farmers are establishing ponds to attract game as well as to produce fish. The department estimates more than 87,000 such ponds are being built annually. Properly designed and constructed ponds can produce 100 to 300 pounds of fish per acre.

Food and Cover

Windbreaks of trees and shrubs planted on farms and ranches in the Great Plains help provide food and cover for many kinds of wildlife.

A growing practice of planting trees in permanent pastures is also serving as habitat for deer, wild turkey and ruffed grouse.

Watershed protection and flood-prevention projects improve habitat for stream fish. They cut down on silt, which is one of the most serious pollutants of fishing waters.

How To Do It

Soil surveys help farmers make decisions regarding use of their wetlands. The Agriculture Department's Soil Conservation Service helps landowners install measures that will increase the wildlife productivity of marshes and other natural wet lands.

These measures include impoundments, level ditching, water-level controls, controlled burning, regulated grazing and planting.

Farmers are being shown also how to use odd areas for wildlife. Odd areas include fence corners, rocky spots, bare knobs, sinkholes, abandoned roads and good land isolated by ditches, streams and gullies. These areas total about 10 million acres for the whole country.

Pastor To Speak At Annual Soil Group Meeting

The annual meeting of the Morgan County Soil Conservation district will be held Monday, Feb. 8, at Salem Lutheran church. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m.

The pastor, Rev. Herbert C. Rose, will be the speaker. His subject will be "Neglect of the Soil Through the Centuries."

The board president, R. G. Leavell, rural route 2, will preside and Ted Pierce, SCS technician, will make his final report to the board. He is retiring in March and will move to his native home, Watseka, Iroquois county.

Three directors to serve two years terms will be elected. Those whose terms expire are Floyd Goodpasture, Concord; Amos Western, Jacksonville, and Earl Myers, Literberry. Holdover members are Leavell and Cecil Oxley Franklin.

Plates are $1.50 and may be had at the SCS office or from any of the directors.

Farmers Union To Meet Tuesday

Glenn E. Spencer of the Jacksonville Production Credit Association will be the speaker at the next meeting of the Cass County Farmers Union, which will be held at the American Legion Home in Virginia at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 19.

His topic will be farm credit, and how it is affected by low prices, high production costs and higher interest rates.

Delegates will be chosen at this meeting to go on the Washington bus trip to confer with Illinois senators and congressmen on the 1960 farm program.

The public is invited to attend.

Research Studies Gestation Period Of Dairy Cows

URBANA—University of Illinois dairy research indicates that it is possible to shorten the gestation period in dairy cows by using selective breeding.

U. of I. scientists point out that length of gestation is hereditary. With proper selection it could possibly be cut by more than three days in one generation.

Dairy scientist R. W. Touchberry says studies of more than 2,000 gestations show that the unborn calf has more to do with time of birth than does the cow. The fetus contributes almost eight times as much genetic variance to gestation length as the dam does.

By breeding 50 per cent of the females to 5 per cent of the males born after the shortest pregnancies, gestation time can be cut by 3.2 days in one generation.

Touchberry says further research is needed to find how much three or four generations of selection will cut gestation time. Further studies would also show whether shorter gestation periods have any harmful effects on the cow or her calf.

Women Bowlers Wanted For Tournament

Wanted: Women who like to bowl and who are members of the Home Bureau, or belong to a Farm Bureau family, or the Rural Youth. Former 4-H and FHA members are eligible.

Those interested are invited to contact John Chambers, Farm Bureau organization director, who is making plans for the Sports Festival bowling tournament to be held in Springfield on Feb. 17.

"We have a pretty good bunch of men ready," Chambers says, "due to the success of the Farm Bureau bowling league schedule now going on at Bowling Center. But we are mighty short of women and need some to represent the county at the district tournament."

Farm Bureau men have eight teams in action. Albert McNeeley has been in charge of the league, which opened in November and will close at the end of March.

Classes in the Springfield tournament will be husband and wife, mixed doubles and men's and women's teams and singles. The winners there will represent the district in the state finals to be held in Decatur March 8.

Plan FFA, 4-H Dairy Calf Sale

URBANA—The 12th annual 4-H and FFA Dairy Calf Sale will be held in Urbana Saturday, Feb. 27.

Breed committees have already selected consignments of more than 100 purebred dairy calves for the sale, according to J. G. Cash, University of Illinois extension dairy specialist.

Consignment by breeds includes 25 Holstein, 20 Guernsey, 15 Jersey, 15 Brown Swiss and 10 Ayrshire calves.

Cash says breed representatives are anxious to provide the best possible calves for the sale. Many calves bought at prior club sales are now high producers and foundation animals for several good Illinois herds.

As soon as catalogs are off the press, one copy will be sent to each vocational agriculture teacher and each county farm adviser in the state.

Only bona fide Illinois 4-H or FFA members are eligible to buy at the sale.

1960 ACP SIGNUP TO CLOSE JAN. 29

The annual ACP signup period is now in progress at the ASC office. The first phase will close Jan. 29 and thusfar the response has been good, says Office Manager Wallace T. Hembrough.

Those who wish to spread limestone or rock phosphate this spring or early in the summer should sign up now, he said. Those who expect to spread either or both in the fall should wait until August to sign up.

U. S. farmers receive more money from the sale of cattle and calves than from any other farm product.

Federation To Honor Morgan 4-H Leaders

The volunteer 4-H club leaders, those most responsible for the success of the program, will be the guests of the 4-H Federation at a banquet to be held at Grace Methodist church on Tuesday, Jan. 19. Serving will begin at 6:30 p.m.

R. O. Lyons, head of the Illinois Extension 4-H staff, will be the speaker and 4-H club members from various sections of the county will entertain.

The 4-H Federation, which is comprised of two youths from each active club in the county, is in charge of the evening. Financially, they will be aided by the Farm Bureau, Home Bureau and the Morgan County Service Co.

On the committees are:

Menu—Linda Mallicoat, Janet Black, Loren Becker.

Decorations — Becky Bealmear, Sherry Houston, Gordon Heaton, Mike Anderson.

Program—Ronald Tomhave, Allan Anderson, Prudy Ginder, Gordon Heaton, Janet Black, Bob Hadden and Linda Mallicoat.

Sees Steep Decline In Farm Population

The 1960 census is expected to show that the Illinois farm population has declined about 10 per cent since 1955.

According to C. L. Folse, University of Illinois rural sociologist, there will probably be about 610,000 people living on farms on April 1 compared with an estimated 688,000 in 1955. The number of farms is expected to total about 140,000 compared with 175,543 five years ago.

At the same time that farm population has declined, the state's total population should reach about 10,350,000 by April 1—a gain of about 1.6 million people since 1950. Illinois is one of eight states showing a gain of more than a million in population in the past 10 years.

Poorer Areas Lose

Greatest decreases in farm population will show up in the less productive farming areas of southern Illinois and in the areas surrounding metropolitan centers, where farm land has been taken over for urban and industrial uses. Smallest farm population changes will take place in the commercial agricultural areas where the most productive farms are located.

Looking ahead to 1975, Folse believes that Illinois could reach a total population of more than 13 million. The farm population will continue to decline until it makes up slightly less than four per cent of the total, he feels.

Change Brings Problems

Population declines pose many problems for rural areas, Folse points out. Among them are local government, medical services and facilities and schools that must adjust to serving a smaller farm population.

Declining farm population, however, is not a new trend in Illinois. In 1910, the farm population totaled 1,158,000. By 1940 this number had dropped to 968,103. In 1950 it was 765,000.

Illinois holds no sacred position in any phase of the poultry industry. New production trends challenge Illinois' present high rank among U. S. egg- and turkey-producing states. And the state is rapidly losing its relative position in the broiler industry.

Skimping on bedding for your dairy cows might be an expensive way to save money. Cold, wet, uncomfortable cows do not give as much milk as they could give. They have to use too much of their energy to maintain body temperature.

Good management is the key to raising hogs in confinement. Management becomes more important than ever when many hogs are concentrated in small areas.

Home's Where Votes Are—

In the world of politics, every state is a great state, whether it has four counties or 254. And no politician obeying the union rules has ever been guilty of the quiet sell.

But now the "sell" seems to be getting louder and harder.

The visiting citizen tripping in to see his senator or congressman could always count on at least a couple of walls full of pictures of home state fields, hills, lakes, beautiful buildings, highways and so on.

Now and then you could expect to see some exhibits in depth, like some old dried field corn, or a palm frond or what not.

Today that doesn't seem to satisfy the boys. Walk down the marble corridors of the House and Senate office buildings. The great polished wooden doors whose august dignity appeared to say "lawmaker within" now frequently are adorned with color photographs of home state marvels. One senator even bedecked his door with Christmas cards, perhaps to remind folks he's still popular back home.

The Crucible

In the 1920s Sir Winston Churchill was most often a lone voice crying in the wilderness. Those were days when disarmament talk ran high. Sir Winston warned that settlement of international differences had to precede effective disarmament, which could only come in an atmosphere of trust.

That has become the classic argument. It is rooted in the idea that armaments are a symptom of fear. If you would abolish arms, so it goes, you must first remove the fear.

The reasoning seems irresistible, since for so long it has fit so many of the known facts. Nations do indeed operate from their fears, and stockpile weapons to assuage them.

If problems like those between East and West in Berlin could be solved, fears would be lessened and so, presumably, would the need for arms.

Yet in recent times men of stature have arisen to suggest that armaments of themselves are a cause, not merely a symptom, of fear. They say that fear and tension will diminish as the arms are reduced.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd is one who so believes. In his view, progress in disarmament need not wait upon political settlements. It can come first, and will make political negotiations easier if it does.

Now Adlai Stevenson, writing in the quarterly magazine Foreign Affairs, makes plain that he shares this position. Says he: "Fear will not vanish until the arms race is arrested."

Stevenson feels that Khrushchev agrees. And he thinks the Russians are genuinely troubled over the cost and many other aspects of the arms race. In the Democratic leader's mind, disarmament would not only be welcomed for itself, but might open the way for much broader understanding and hence effective, enforceable political solutions.

This much can be said. Our earnest continuance of the disarmament talks in Geneva puts the Stevenson-Lloyd theory to test. We are patiently searching out paths toward agreement with the Russians.

If they are found and we get real disarmament, then we shall learn where arms as a symptom of national fears leave off, and arms as a cause of world fears begin. We shall learn how much we have advanced the cause of peace by destroying the means of war.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Can viewers of a prime-time TV variety show stand to think?

Steve Allen believes so. At least he's willing to test the theory on his Monday night clambake. Starting Feb. 1, he is instituting a 20-minute segment called "Meeting of Minds." Don't look for Don Knotts to pull his twitch or Louis Nye to crash through a wall. The Allen gang won't participate in this sketch.

"In our first one, we'll have Aristotle, Montaigne, Hegel, Dostoevski, Freud and Clarence Darrow," Allen reported. "We had no trouble signing them because the price was right."

The decision that these great minds take part in a round table discussion on a matter each has been concerned with—in this case, punishment. Actors will impersonate the sages in a give-and-take session based on actual writings.

"It wouldn't be right to interpret their words on matters that happened after they lived, so we'll stick to broad, general subjects," Allen added.

Allen admitted that introduction of serious material in a comedy show is not calculated to improve his rating.

"I would guess that when we first try 'Meeting of Minds,' we might pick up a few viewers through curiosity," he observed. "But I would suppose that we might lose a point or two when we do it again.

"That doesn't bother me. This is something I'm very interested in, and I feel that the national climate is such that people are ready for it."

Defense Secretary Is Up; Congress Pitches Questions

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA) — New Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates now begins a month and more of intensive testifying before Congress. In addition to routine double armed services and appropriations hearings, the two space committees under Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) and Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La.) want to hear him.

There are, of course, political overtones in this. Democratic congressmen, particularly the presidential candidates, are highly critical that national defense against Russia is being sacrificed to balance the budget.

President Eisenhower's State of the Union message took the line that America's existing "enormous defense power" now makes certain that "no nation will ever risk general war against us."

But defense department critics outside and in the Pentagon find it hard to reconcile this optimism with latest developments in the missile race and the services.

Defending the administration's defense policies and its new budget require considerable staff work and homework.

But there is no indication that the new secretary will be hazed. He has made a good impression, so far, on Congress and in the Pentagon.

This confidence was not shared by his predecessor, Neil McElroy, during his final months. He spent much time on foreign inspection trips. And he was under pressure and anxious to return to private business interests.

The letter which Secretary Gates sent to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, just after taking office, was well received. He asked that he be consulted immediately when differences arise. This promises that interservice rivalries will be resolved before they become feuds, causing disunity.

One thing Gates and the joint chiefs apparently want to avoid is another Pentagon reorganization act this year.

There is some sentiment in Congress to go a little farther, or all the way on unification. One small example is Sen. John Sherman Cooper's (R-Ky.) bill to make Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries unto undersecretaries of defense.

But the Pentagon Reorganization Act put through in August 1958 made sweeping changes which defense officials would like to try out a couple of years before monkeying more.

The President was given authority to merge, transfer or abolish service functions—subject only to peacetime veto by Congress. But the act also gave the Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries and chiefs of staff authority to make direct recommendations to Congress.

President Eisenhower called this "legalized insubordination." But what it indicates is that Pentagon organization will not necessarily be frozen till 1961.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, is already advocating a new joint strategic command over Air Force intercontinental missiles and the Navy's Polaris, fired from submarines.

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, opposes this. Defense Secretary Gates, having previously been Navy secretary, has been counted on to back the sea service, though he has not said he would.

General White goes so far as to advocate that if the Army should develop strategic missiles, they should come under the joint strategic command.

If some system of command rotation could be worked out for this, it might go over. It could be made effective by presidential order, without congressional action.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining's second two-year term as chairman of the joint chiefs does not expire until Aug. 15, 1961, but there has been some Pentagon speculation that he might like to retire earlier.

If that happens, it will be Army's turn to head the joint chiefs again and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer would be in line. So far, he has kept out of the dispute over Army cutbacks raised by his two predecessors, Generals Maxwell D. Taylor and Matthew B. Ridgway.

President Eisenhower has promised a faster rate of modernization, which allays this criticism somewhat.

But General White says he will "testify honestly" if asked about the B-70 and other cutbacks. Congressional critics are bound to ferret out other service gripes and try to make something of them.

Home for Independent Aged Is Credit to Its Sponsors

BY MARIE DAERR

"Maturity With Dignity." That is the title of a booklet describing Senior Homes of Colorado, a home for the independent aging which is an example of what churches may accomplish when they take seriously their duties toward their older citizens.

The one-story brick apartment project opened last June in Denver, Colo., after years of struggle with such problems as money and location. ("You'd have thought we were trying to build a slum project," said one committee member.)

Its sponsors are Denver's First Plymouth Congregational, First United Presbyterian and Central Presbyterian Churches of the Rocky Mountain Baptist Association.

Among First Plymouth's members is Rep. Byron L. Johnson of Colorado's first congressional district, who at a recent national meeting of the United Church of Christ stressed the church's responsibilities in the field of housing older people.

"Actually," said Johnson, "providing good housing for the aged is important because these people are relatively questionable as a mortgage risk, a risk from the landlords' and builders' standpoints, and are not likely to develop organizations to provide housing for themselves."

Senior Homes of Colorado, a co-operative, nonprofit corporation, offers people with the health and means to care for themselves 166 ground-floor units. They include: efficiency apartments, with living-bedroom, kitchen and bath, at $45 a month; one-bedroom at $62.50 and two-bedroom at $75. Dormitory bedrooms rent for $35. There is a dining hall.

Minimum age requirement is 50. There is no maximum. Initiation fee is $525. Potential residents must be nominated by the sponsoring churches.

Senior Homes of Colorado was financed with the help of an FHA-insured loan. The co-operating groups sold interest-bearing bonds at $600 apiece.

The bonds could never be cashed but could be left to an estate, left to the church at death, with the bearer meanwhile taking the interest, or given to the church outright.

There are no rigid meal hours at Senior Homes of Colorado and no checking in and out. But there are: a community building for arts and crafts, shop work and social meetings; convenient transportation; a resident nurse and resident manager; a front door and a little yard for each tenant.

Interest in growing things led to formation of a green-thumb committee. A Red Cross sewing group is another project. So are Sunday night vespers, a community newspaper, a telephone book for local listings and birthdays, a library, discussion groups, croquet, horseshoes and shuffleboard.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Are the Democrats going to make their 1960 presidential campaign against President Eisenhower, the Republican party, or Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the only Republican candidate in sight?

The Democrats will be fighting their 1956 campaign against Eisenhower all over again if the course taken Thursday by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) is an example of what's to come.

Kennedy, now running for the Democratic presidential nomination, made a speech before the National Press Club. He not only attacked Eisenhower's presidential performance but said:

The central issue in the 1960 contest is "not the farm problem or defense or India" but the "presidency itself." Although Eisenhower is not the 1960 candidate, Kennedy accused him of lack of leadership and do-nothingism.

His point was that the country needs to elect as its next president a man who is the opposite of Eisenhower. This is exactly the course the Democrats pursued in 1956 when Eisenhower ran for his second term.

It was fatal. The voters showed what they thought of the Democratic argument by re-electing Eisenhower overwhelmingly.

And at this moment, when Kennedy is blazing away at him, Eisenhower is probably at or near the highest mark of his popularity in his two White House terms. Which raises a question:

If the voters ignored the Democrats' arguments against Eisenhower in 1956, what makes Kennedy or any other Democrat think the voters won't do the same this year, especially since Eisenhower isn't even running?

Kennedy dwelt at length on the kind of active White House leadership he said the country needs from now on. He didn't say whether Nixon would imitate Eisenhower or be different. He didn't mention Nixon at all, directly or otherwise.

While Eisenhower retained both his popularity and the presidency the voters three times in a row—1954 — 1956 — 1958 — repudiated the Republicans as a party by giving control of Congress to the Democrats each time.

The story got worse as it went along. In 1958 the voters drowned the Republicans by giving control of Congress to the Democrats by the biggest majority in both House and Senate since early New Deal days.

It was thought then that Eisenhower, unable to run again, would be trampled on by the swarming Democrats in Congress and probably pretty much ignored by his own Republicans too, since he was in the last two years of his presidency.

The contrary happened, for since 1958 Eisenhower has shown more active leadership than at any time since he first took office. This has been widely attributed to the loss of the two men he depended on most:

Sherman Adams, his main assistant, through resignation; and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, through death. The reasoning here was that Eisenhower had to depend more on himself and therefore did so.

But that analysis may be incomplete. By sheer forcefulness—and perhaps Democratic uneasiness in the face of his popularity—he had the Democratic-run Congress eating out of his hand in 1959. The Republicans there followed him like sheep.

There seems a logical explanation for the Republicans' docility: As a party they had been ignored three times in a row by the voters and probably felt lucky to be able to identify themselves with the popular Eisenhower.

If they were to win in 1960 they had to hope that his performance — and some of his popularity — would rub off on them.

Religion at the Top

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

How about religion at the top, in this country? "Top," in this instance, being the nation's capital.

The magazine NEWSWEEK some time ago had a fairly long and detailed article on party-giving and party-going in Washington. One received the impression that this social, and in some respects antisocial, partying has quite a disproportionate aspect to what surely ought to be a supreme factor of the national capital—to set a good example to the rest of the country, and to put the interests and welfare of the country above all else.

Basically, in the nature of the partying and the strange rivalry of wealthy women for who could have the biggest and best and the greatest social prestige in guests, the contrast could hardly be greater than with the vast mass of people, who from choice or necessity live simple and wholesome lives.

I suppose that the wealthy women, who contribute considerable to welfare in income taxes, have a right to spend their money as they please. But a deeper question is: Is it right? And since I am talking of contrasts, what a contrast there is between women of wealth and privilege who are achieving well deserved fame through their devotion to the country and the common good, where the eminent party-givers are not achieving much more than notoriety?

There is, however, a more serious aspect. The article stating the Washington caterers handled "another 100 cocktail parties" in one week, added the fact that liquor consumption in the nation's capital is three times the national average. It lends point to the comment of the Princeton University economist, in his recent book, "The Question of National Defense," that "leaders spend too much time over cocktails to dig their main problems."

Few thoughtful people today, even those strongly temperance-minded, fail to regard the prohibition era as a mistake. I supported it when the choice was to support it, or not to support it, but I feared the reaction — far worse that I or others could have anticipated—and I regretted the virtual abandonment of other attempts that had been progressively successful in battling intemperance.

But from the "noble experiment" to the liquor-dominated society of today the decline has been tragic, and it has in it possibilities of disaster that few are facing.

It is under these conditions that one might wish, and expect, a better example from the national capital in sobriety, both in habit and thinking, and the manifestation of character and action more in accord with the great principles and teachings of the Old and New Testaments. Instead, much that is happening is a travesty upon the teachings of Jesus, and the great Book we all profess to honor.

Sophie Kerr's Answer To Age: 'Don't Imitate'

The writer, Sophie Kerr, who is in her 79th year, has written the best article on old age that I have ever read.

In the issue of Coronet magazine the editors have given it the honest, down-to-earth title of "Wise Words From an Old Lady."

Starting out with the observation that all too many old ladies "look grim" Miss Kerr goes on to advise on the ways in which an older woman can accentuate the haves and cut the losses to keep old age from becoming a frustrating, lonely, bewildering time of life.

She admits quite frankly that old age has many limitations. But she points out that it has its privileges, too.

"We old ones must use the muscles of our bodies and the muscles of our minds as far as they will go and neither envy nor imitate youth.

"We had it once and we can look back with gratitude, for now our finest memories take the place of the vague, feverish dreams and ambitions of our youth. We are, in fact, living the future of our youth. The rush and push of earlier days are done; instead we have more selection of activity, more dignity, a broader vista, a more even judgment. . . .

"We can live according to our own customs, holding the treasures of age and valuing them. And we can surely loosen that prevailing grimness of our faces by forcing up the corners of the mouth and smiling confidently at the coming generations, assured that we will receive a smile of confidence in return."

Her words, for the old, offer inspiritation and courage. The young can read it for an understanding of the meaning of age.

Cheese Veal Logs Qualify As a Novelty Main Course

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Something different to eat often brightens up the appetite. We think this recipe for veal and cheese will do just that:

Cheese-Veal Logs
(Makes 8 servings)

One and one-half pounds ground veal, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon thyme, 1 egg, beaten; ¼ cup milk, ¼ cup rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked), cheddar cheese.

Combine thoroughly all ingredients except cheese. Cut cheese into 8 thick slices, about 3 x ½ inches. Divide meat mixture into 8 portions. Shape each to form a log; press around cheese. Brown in shortening over medium heat, about 10 minutes on each side. Cook over low heat 20 additional minutes, or until done.

A delicate cake that requires very little preparation is also good eating news:

Frosted Lemon Flake Cake

One package lemon flake cake mix, ½ cup butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 pound (about 4 cups) sifted confectioners' sugar, 1 egg, unbeaten; 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 2 tablespoons milk (about), ½ cup toasted coconut.

Prepare cake mix as directed on package, baking in 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Cool cake; then split to make two layers. Cream butter until soft. Add salt and part of sugar gradually, blending after each addition. Mix in egg and rind. Then add rest of sugar alternately with milk until of right consistency to spread, beating after each addition until smooth. Spread frosting between layers and on top of cake. While frosting is still soft, sprinkle with coconut, toasted, if desired.

Note: For glossier frosting, substitute 2 egg yolks for the whole egg.

MONDAY'S DINNER: Cold roast pork, mustard, creamed potatoes, peas, garlic bread, fresh fruit cup, frosted lemon flake cake, coffee, tea, milk.

Blankets For Needy

The Illinois Council of Churches and the United Council of Church Women have designated Sunday, Jan. 17, as "Blanket Sunday" in Illinois. Members of the Methodist church are being asked to bring a new or good blanket and 25c to church next Sunday for this project. The 25c is to cover cost of processing, postage and etc.

Dr. Andrew E. Kurth, synod executive of the Presbyterian church who just returned from a trip to the Orient, described the need there as "absolutely unbelievable."

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

VIEWS INVESTMENTS FOR FARMERS

A farm family has some choice in the use of its income. The usual priorities probably rank as follows: (1) reasonable level of living; (2) taxes; (3) some life insurance; (4) increase in operating capital, such as livestock and farm machinery; (5) some improvement in the level of living; and (6) savings.

One goal of many farm families is farm land ownership. They accumulate savings for that purpose. They may be able to obtain control of a farm with a small down payment by using an installment land contract. Or they may make some other form of investment until it becomes possible or feasible to invest in farm land.

In considering alternative kinds of nonreal estate investments, it is desirable to consider the risk one is able and willing to take as to both annual income and change in value of the dollar, in terms of or returns that can be expected, and the extent to which the investment is a hedge against inflation. The following outline lists several alternative forms of investments according to the above criteria.

The selection will depend to some extent on the length of time one expects to keep the investment. A short-term investment may ignore the inflation-hedge feature. The value of the dollar, in terms of articles and services used for family living, would probably change little in a period of one to three years. However, life insurance is usually considered a long-term form of protection and investment, and the cash paid to the beneficiary or received as cash by the insured on surrender of the policy may have more or less purchasing power than the original premium payments, depending on the direction of movement of the price level.

Characteristics of Different Kinds of Investments

Risk as to loss of principal:

High—Common stocks

Medium—Preferred stock, some corporation bonds.

Low—Government bonds, life insurance reserves, insured savings accounts in banks, or savings and loan associations.

Yields,* annual average over a ten-year period:

High—Common stocks.

Medium—Preferred stocks

Hedge against inflation:

Good—Common stocks of corporations that have large investments in physical plants and inventories.

*There are times when yields are higher on good bonds and preferred stocks than on "blue-chip" common stocks. That is true today, and it is the result of a combination of a strong demand for loanable funds and optimism regarding future dividends on common stocks. It affords an excellent opportunity to combine safety with moderately high yields by buying government bonds or putting savings in savings accounts in banks or savings and loan associations.

Wet Weather Holds Corn Moisture High

Quite a few farmers in this area who desire to get government commodity loans on their 1959 corn crop wish for dry, sunny, windy days. Due to the recent gloomy and wet weather their corn is actually gaining in moisture content.

Most ear corn is now holding 18 to 19% moisture. This is O.K. for government loan if the crib is only 10 feet wide. But if the corn is in a crib 12 feet wide the percentage of moisture makes it ineligible for loan. The minimum in the latter case is 17%.

Wallace T. Hembrough, local ASC office manager, says that about one-fourth of the corn now being tested rates too high to be acceptable if it is stored in a 12-foot crib. Since the first of the year the local testing station has checked 435 samples from Morgan county, 242 from Scott and 244 from Cass.

So far 149 loans have been made on 310,808 bushels of Morgan county corn. Fifty-six loans have been denied, due to high moisture content. A total of 15 warehouse loans on 14,503 bushels has been completed.

Little re-checking has been done, because recent weather conditions make the results a foregone conclusion. Some cribs, however, have been checked twice, and turned down twice.

This year's corn loan is $1.14 a bushel, with a possible three-cent premium at delivery time. Corn grading No. 1 or No. 2 at that time will earn a penny premium; so will it if the moisture content is below 14%, and also if it is delivered with less than 2% foreign matter.

Dramatic advances in livestock housing will become common within the next ten years. The trend will be toward confining livestock from birth until market.

During the past five years, each person in the United States has had 60 to 70 percent more beef than was available per person 30 years ago.

Soil Testers

DR. JAMES C. LAVERTY, who succeeded A. U. Thor as director of the 120 Extension and Commercial Class A soil testing laboratories in Illinois, inspected the local laboratory at the Farm Bureau last week. He told Mrs. Rowena Enke, technician in charge, that he found everything "first rate."

Laverty is a native of Minnesota and completed his doctorate in analytical chemistry at Ohio State U. last June. He follows Dr. Thor, who was primarily responsible for the spread of soil testing in Illinois, which is far ahead of the nation in this field. Dr. Thor retired last September and is living in Arizona.

Ever See A Plant With Lion's Teeth?

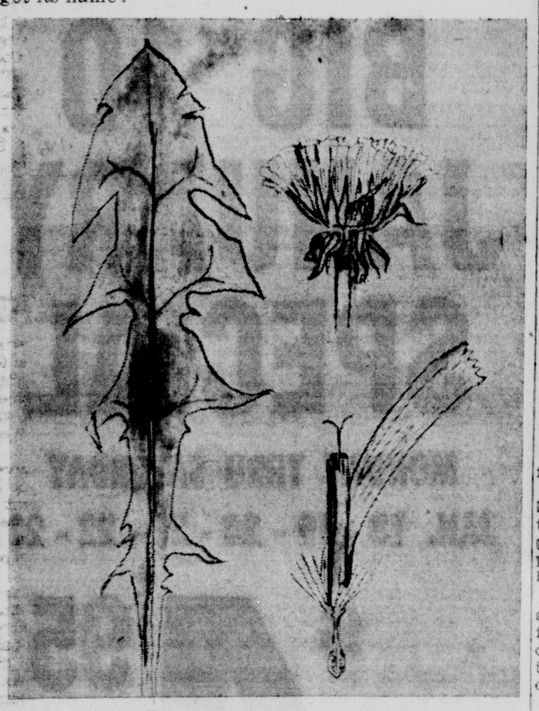
By N. Richard

There is not much of our language which we can really call our own. Most of it comes from an earlier one.

This is true of the plant names which we use also. Only, its use or spelling may have been changed.

Who would be able to guess where the dandelion got its name?



Anyone who has ever pushed a lawn mower has, no doubt, noticed the ragged, toothed leaves which this plant has in a rosette which lies in the grass. The French called it "dent de lion" which is French for "the lion's tooth," because of the leaves. This name has remained and we use it in its changed form.

Has Many Uses

Although we consider it a most bothersome weed, it does have some uses which are worth thinking about.

Its scientific name is Taraxacum officinale. The species name shows that the plant gives a drug and takes its name from the genus. The drug is called Taraxacum.

We are told that thousands of pounds of dandelion are imported each year for the purpose of making tonics and liver medicines.

Dandelion greens are collected in the spring and are often eaten especially in the southern United States. Also, a wine can be made from the blossoms and the root may be roasted and ground to be added to coffee in the same way that chicory is used in New Orleans.

Many Flowers in One

The makeup of the dandelion flower is much different than that of most other plants. Whenever you pick a blossom, you are really picking several dozen individual flowers.

Each of the tiny petal-like parts has all the necessary parts attached to it that will be used in producing one seed. Thus, each part is a flower. This type of blossom is called a composite.

Other composite flowers, such as daisies and sunflowers, have flowers without petals at their centers. These center ones are the ones which are capable of producing seeds.

The petals which surround the outer edge do not have any seed-making parts as they do in the dandelion and so cannot produce seeds. These are called ray-flowers. The center flowers are called disk-flowers.

The dandelion blossom is made up entirely of ray-flowers. Scientists tell us that the composites are the most advanced plants on the face of the earth.

Look closely at the dandelion next spring.

Winter Courage

By Miss Emma Mae Leonhard

It would seem to us humans snugly protected in our warm homes from the winter blasts and from the stinging sleet and driving snow that birds must be very courageous to face those winter-weather elements. It is true that as long as birds can find something to eat, they will not freeze.

Then all the protection that they need is a pile of brush, an evergreen tree, a hole in the trunk of a tree, or heavy underbrush. Then all the heat that they need is that which is generated in their bodies from the seeds or food eaten all day long and from the slanting rays of the winter sun.

However, sometimes the seeds are buried under the snow; the berries and buds are encased in a layer of ice; the lakes and streams are ice-locked; and the insect eggs and larvae in the cracks of the bark of trees are enclosed in both ice and snow. Under those conditions Tantalus seems to rule the bird world, but the birds dare to defy him. Is it rashness, or is it courage which steels them against the odds in their battle for survival?

Death For Cowards

Then all birds, large or small—water birds or land birds, song birds or birds of prey—must be courageous. The weak and cowardly must perish.

If you were to choose the bird that seems most courageous during the winter rebuffs, which one would you propose? Would it be your favorite Cardinal that still jauntily raises its crest? Or the Chickadee that chatters its lively song to the wind?

Or the tiny Brown Creeper that clamps its frail body on the tree trunk open to the strong drafts of the north wind? Or even the tinier Kinglet or Winter Wren that looks like a bird sprite as it flits and flutters from one place to another?

Occasional Winter Birds

Those birds are some of our winter residents and have learned to play the game with the winter elements. Even the Mockingbird, the Robin and the Bluebird, although not considered winter or permanent residents, occasionally remain here so late that winter overtakes them, and they too must eat the rough soldiers' feed and meet the merciless attacks of winter storms. However, these few strays from the migrating birds usually survive.

Perhaps most of you are moved by the courage of these birds, or their rashness, or even their initiative. But once in awhile a bird that isn't associated with the winter season at all in our area is discovered by someone. Two years ago a Brown Thrasher survived in the Jacksonville winter, with the help of a feeding station.

This winter another Brown Thrasher is here. Miss Ruby Mann has seen it frequently in her yard on Prospect street, even on the first of January. As long as the berries on shrubs and vines remain free of ice and snow, it may survive.

Although it is primarily a fruit and insect feeder, it can swallow some seeds and will eat bread crumbs, which it likes to scratch for in leaves where the English Sparrows don't find them.

The Brown Thrasher may be much larger than the Kinglet, the Winter Wren, or the Brown Creeper; but it seems even more courageous, for it has not been trained so well to battle winter as our tiny winter residents have.

What Do You Think?

By GERALD LAWLESS

The Good Life

The conditions that must be met in trying to lead the good life can be compared with those that must be met by a fleet of ships trying to reach port safely during a voyage.

These ships are in formation with other ships just as a person lives his life with other people. What follows shows the similarities of those ships with those of someone trying to lead the good life.

Each ship in the formation must be seaworthy; it must be built to withstand storms. Man, in order to lead the good life, must be prepared to cope with the barriers and troubles in life.

We do this through knowledge. The more knowledge we have, the better we can solve the problems of life.

No Collisions, Please!

The ships must not get in each other's way. If they do, they will collide.

People must try to avoid making life hard for other people. People who do make life hard for other people make life more difficult for themselves, because they lessen their own amount of moral goodness.

Watch That Chart

The fleet of ships must reach its proper destination and must not reach the wrong port. A fleet that reaches the wrong port has failed.

Man, to attain the goal of the good life, must direct himself and must allow himself to be directed along a right course. He must not be pulled from the quest of his goal by hatred and envy.

Man, then, to live the good life, must be psychologically and mentally prepared to achieve his goals, must not hamper the attempts of any other persons in the achievement of their ends and must take proper ethical precautions to be sure that he obtains the goal that he wants and has striven for.

A fleet of ships must meet the same type of conditions as man for the achievement of safety, which is its goal, although, of course, it uses, through its masters, different actions to do so.

What do you think is the way to lead the good life?

Every Lady A Magician

By Mabel Hall Goltra

No trick of magician we've seen can compare
With the wonders a woman can work with her hair.
The elegant damsel who dazzles the eye
In her evening coiffure swept up gorgeously high
Gets scarcely a glance from the guy over yonder
Next day when her hair is let straggle and wander.
A garland of ringlets, and presto! one thinks
That here is a giddy, impractical minx.
But the masculine trim of a business like bob
Turns her into the type who who could hold any job.
A face-framing cluster of flattering tresses
Bring out all the glamour the lady possesses.
A bun or a braid makes her look rather quaint
Which maybe she is or maybe she ain't.
While a woman thus alters her looks with a hair-do
And tries every form of a common or rare-do,
To the end of his days, as he youthfully started,

C Q Radio Hams —

Radio For Boys

By Joseph A. Smith

POWER FORMULAS

Power measurements in Watts is another often used radio term. The 75 watt household light bulb has 117 volts A.C. applied to it.

We can figure the amount of current flowing through it with the simple formula I equals P over E. Substituting in our formula we see that our light bulb has 641 mills of electrical current flowing through it when lit to full brilliance.

We can figure the plate imput to our transmitter's final amplifier if we know both the plate voltage (E) and plate current flowing through it (I). P (imput) equals I times E.

Let's assume a plate voltage (E) of 640 volts and a plate current (I) of 100 mills. Substituting in our formula we find that we are running 64 watts imput to our final amplifier.

Voltage can be computed if both power and current is known thusly: E equals P over I. Let's assume a power imput of 100 watts and a plate current of 200 mills. Again substituting into our simple formula we find that we are using a B plus supply of 5,000 volts. (Obviously this is strictly theoretical!)

For Further Study

For a more complete study of Inductance and Capacitance a thorough study of these portions of chapter 2 in the A.R.R.L. Handbook is a must. While the exact number of turns for a given diameter coil and given inductance can be figured from the Handbook charts, in most cases suitable coil winding data can be found in circuits found in that section.

In winding a transmitter coil you generally adjust the turns to the point where about half the capicitance of the final tank variable is in mesh for the best capitance to inductance ratio so as to achieve a lower quantity of harmonic output and less T.V.I. etc!

Perhaps a good project would be a simple LS4 oscillator—transmitter. It can be quickly made with junk parts or an available surplus tuner unit. It should be built in a metal box if not on the tuner chasis.

The following is the parts list:

1—1T4 tube
1—7 pin miniature tube socket
1—47K at ½ watt resistor
1—Miniature crystal socket
1—Miniature coil form
1—140 uufd miniature (APC type) Variable

L1 is about 90 turns of No. 30 covered wire wound around the coil form f or80 Mtre.

L2, the link winding, is adjusted to the load into which thel ittle rig works.

This little rig may be used as a code practice oscillator when loaded into a small light bulb and should then be turned into an amateur band. You can then pick it up on your Ham receiver.

Later it would perhaps work out a hundred or so miles. It should run something around .8 watt imput (90 volts at 9 mills plate current.)

Finance Topic At Hardin Woman's Club Program

HARDIN — William Fisher, representative of an Alton investment firm, spoke Tuesday night before the Hardin Woman's club on the subject, "It's Your Money." Mr. Fisher illustrated his talk with charts of industry and population growth in relation to inflation, over a period of 150 years, and of the comparative rate of growth of various businesses. He gave a general explanation of the sale and purchasing of bonds and stocks, and other types of investments, and briefly presented several suggestions for accumulating and saving money for the future. His talk was well received by those present.

During the business meeting, over which Mrs. Paul R. Durr, club president, presided, a letter was read concerning the throat culture program of the Heart Association which the club is helping to sponsor in the Hardin grade school, starting at the beginning of the second semester.

A report of the December 7 20th district board meeting in Jacksonville, was given by Mrs. Paul Aderton, and a report was given by Mrs. J. M. Tucker of Boys Town of Illinois. President Durr read names of additional committee members for the fashion show which the club will present in the spring, and she asked that committee chairmen prepare a progress report for the February meeting.

Following the business meeting, refreshments were served by the following hostesses: Mrs. Henry Shaw, Mrs. Howard Sweetman, Mrs. L. V. Kinser and Miss Nellie Williams.

Plan Heart Drive

The drive will be carried on throughout the month of February, and Heart Sunday, when a door-to-door canvass is made, has been set for Sunday afternoon, Feb. 28. Announcement was made of a $50 donation to the county fund by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Eagleton, owners of the local coin-wash business.

1960 Miss Jacksonville Pageant Plans Underway

This year the Miss Jacksonville Pageant, Prelude to the Miss Illinois and Miss American Pageants, will be conducted on a rather exclusive level.

The committee for the sponsoring organization, Jacksonville Chapter of Jaycees, is presently selecting a committee of three women to represent them in the contact of candidates.

This committee will approach young ladies in the community who represent most nearly the poised, graciously attractive and appealing girls who compete in the Miss America Pageant, the ultimate goal for Miss Jacksonville of 1960.

The Jaycee committee held its first meeting recently and decided this year's Pageant will include all of Morgan county and, as in the past, include girls attending local colleges.

New Approach

There will be no public entry form available this year. People having in mind a young girl, 18 years through 27, single and endowed with the above attributes, may if they so wish write to Post Office Box 77, Jacksonville, Illinois.

This deviates from practice in former years in that friends or relatives of possible candidates may submit their names.

The identity of a person submitting the name of a possible candidate is not necessary but in addition to the name suggested pertinent information such as address, parents, age, school or employement status and other helpful facts will be appreciated.

Candidates for Miss Jacksonville Pageant must be 18 years of age by Sept. 1, 1960 and at that same time under 28 years of age.

Pageant May 14

The Pageant this year will be held Saturday, May 14th, at the Jacksonville High School Auditorium. There will be a parade of the preceding Saturday, May 7th.

The committee is already hard at work lining up honors for the Pageant. Winners will receive, as in past Pageants, excellent college scholarships and other gifts.

Active Committee

The chairman for the 1960 Pageant is Bob Black and co-chairman, John Brummert. On the committee, representing the local Chapter's directors is Bill Carl; Tom Cramer is the vice-president from the Chapter serving on the committee.

Sponsors and advertising, Gene Johnson; scholaships, Fred Cody; trophies and gifts, Gene Shuppara.

The Master of Ceremonies of the Pageant will be Bob Blazier, assistant principal at Turner Junior High. Mrs. Don Hazelrigg will be advisor to the contestants the official hostess this year will be Mrs. Robert Black.

Who will be the typical screen hero of the '60s?

The problem has been bothering actor Richard Conte.

"It's an amazing thing," observes Conte, "but each decade of the movies had been dominated by a screen hero whose mode of lovemaking reflects the economic and social conditions of the times.

"In the movies" infancy you had the heroic lover who put home, honor, gallantry above all. He was the gentleman lover with a handsome, heroic face. Francis X. Bushman dominated the movies before World War I.

"Then the first World War brought a complete change in American life. Most significantly, it freed women from Victorian home life. They went to the other extreme. Free love, flaming youth the flapper, the gigolo. The 20s were called roaring—and it was an understatement.

"A onetime gigolo and tango dancer made a movie called 'The Sheik' in which he stole a woman and carried her off to his tent and made ardent love to her. It created a national fad in lovemaking."

"It was a reckless and wild age and the greatest star of them all was Rudolph Valentino." Others in the cult were John Gilbert, Antonio Moreno and Ricardo Cortez.

If the 20s were roaring, then the 30s were depressing, says Conte.

"Life suddenly lost its gaiety. The depression made life grim and screen heroes became as rugged and tough as life around them.

"Jimmy Cagney pushed a grapefruit in Mae Clarke's face and Clark Gable slapped Norma Shearer. And strangely enough, women liked it."

Came the 40s and the war years.

"Every girl's brother or boy friend was getting drafted. They all looked like Van Johnson—even the boy next door. Van surged to the top in the war years as did John Wayne, who was every girl's ideal of what her boy friend's commanding officer looked like."

Conte labels the 50s as a time of rebellion. "Its greatest movie exponent was Marlon Brando and, for a brief flash, James Dean."

Conte hasn't figured out yet what the 60s will bring.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For years Hollywood has been seeking a new twist for a Western movie. The one they're shooting now at Paramount is so different maybe it should be called an Eastern.

It's the first Chinese Western—even though two of its top stars are Japanese. Even the title—"Walk Like a Dragon"—sounds more Hong Kong than Wyoming—locale of the movie.

James Shigeta, the "Frank Sinatra of Japan," is co-starred with Nobu McCarthy, also Japanese; Jack Lord, from Broadway, and Mel Torme, the foggy voiced singer turned actor.

After this picture, Shigeta probably will be known as the Oriental John Wayne because he plays a Chinese gunslinger who quick-draws for the kill on the traditional Western street.

A Hawaii-born Nisei, Shigeta is a one-time U.S. marine. He knew how to ride but he had to be taught to mount his horse from the right—that's the Oriental custom.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nick Adams, who used to be enthusiastic about bachelorhood, is no longer a bachelor—but he's just as enthusiastic. Only this year his enthusiasm is all for marriage.

Nick married pretty Carol Nugent last May. They expect their first baby next month.

"I come home at night after a tough day's shooting and there's my pretty wife with dinner waiting. I used to come home dead tired and then have to go out to some hamburger joint.

"Hamburgers taste so much better when your wife cooks them."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer Jerry Wald predicts the 60s will see the end of the stars' control over the movie industry.

"Producers got panicky during the 50s," says Wald. "Before they could make a picture, it had to be a pre-fabricated success. That meant that big prices had to be paid for best-selling novels and Broadway hits. Then when producers put that much money in properties, they insured it with million-dollar deals for big names.

"As a result, the stars control the industry now. A lot of expensive pictures with big-name stars flopped during the 50s."

"I think the 60s will be the decade of the writers. A Tennessee Williams or a Faulkner or a John O'Hara will become bigger draws at the box office than a full-bosomed star. And that's the way it ought to be."

THE LADY AND THE GIANT

By Clarence Budington Kelland

© 1959 by Clarence Budington Kelland © 1959 by The Curtis Publishing Company Distributed by NEA Service

THE STORY: Three mysterious events have rocked Syracuse in general and Orrin Applegate, a young lawyer, and his girl Lossie Fox in particular. First was the arrival of beautiful Madam Cissie Janeway, who retained Orrin as her lawyer; second was the discovery of a petrified giant at nearby Cardiff, and third was the finding of the body of an unknown man in the Applegate barn.

• • •

VI

Father and Uncle Lander, as always after a Sunday dinner, were replete and sleepy. They retired to father's study and presently were snoring. Our mothers went upstairs, possibly to avoid being seen to nod inelegantly. Lossie was wide awake.

"Let's walk down to the canal," she said. Walking was an amusement that could be indulged in on the Sabbath without criticism, so Lossie and I set out in a leisurely way toward the canal, where we could stand clear of the towpath and watch the boats go by.

The packet, painted and elegant, and crowded with excursionists and with travelers with westward destinations, approached sedately up the canal. its upper deck with its long benches crowded with passengers, jostled the wall of the canal and came to rest.

A good half of the passengers scrambled ashore. There was some turmoil and Lossie and I saw members of the crew assisting in the effort to get from the rear deck to the shore a large wagon, a sort of van, ornately painted and gilded. And then, issuing from the cabin of the boat, came a strange assortment of people.

Ahead waddled an impossibly fat woman. Trotting at her side was a tiny manikin wearing a tall beaver hat. Behind them marched a man in Zouave costume who led an enormous cinnamon bear by a ring in his nose. Then came a slender young woman who, from where we stood, seemed young and beautiful. She clung to the arm of one the handsomest men I ever have seen. He was dressed more elegantly than you would have expected a member of such a troupe to be. In addition to a tall beaver hat, he carried a gold-headed cane. It was evident from his manner of giving orders that he was the owner or manager of the group. Bringing up the rear, strutted a tall, cadaverous man in somber black, dragging by the hand a small, pale boy.

"We," said I ironically, "are going to have some tony entertainment." All the same, I was a little excited, because performances of any sort were few and far between. This, if I was not mistaken, would be a free show whose purpose was to attract a crowd to whom to sell patent medicine of some sort.

Lossie was frowning, eyes puckered as she concentrated upon some problem. "That handsome man," she said in a queer tone. "I've seen him somewhere—or his picture—and it wasn't in a show." She shook her head. "I don't know why," she went on slowly, "but it surprised me to see him in such company."

"Aw, shucks!" I said. "You're just stuck in a heap because he is so handsome."

She made no retort.

It was strange that the petrified giant out at Cardiff should cause so much more public interest and excitement than the finding of the body of a murdered man in our barn. But it was so. The Cardiff thing caused a minor madness. People poured into Syracuse by train and canalboat and horse-driven vehicle, so that our hotels were there was a constant procession of curious visitors going to and coming from Stubby Newell's farm. In the beginning he had charged 50 cents to go into the tent and stare down at the mystery. But right soon he raised the admission fee to $1. I chanced to be there when the change was made. It was on the suggestion of the cigar manufacturer, George Hull, but it seemed to me it was more an order than a suggestion.

Stubby was becoming a rich man by leaps and bounds, for our calculations made us believe that he was taking in an average of $26 an hour for seven days a week. Stubby had become a showman, aping the great Mr. Barnum in striped trousers and a cutaway coat over a boiled shirt. After a few days he added to his importance by delivering a brief lecture describing how the monster had been discovered and fell in love with the sound of his own voice. The lecture was expanded. It was a treat to listen to Stubby tell how he had been led to make the discovery by the hand of God.

• • •

Lossie's father accompanied us to the tent and listened with rapt face to this new revelation. Lossie inherits her disposition to irreverence from Uncle Lander. At the end of Stubby's remarks—which had become a sermon—he cleared his throat in a dry way he had when he was about to give off with some outrageous saying, and remarked loudly, "Beats all how Divine Providence picked out Stubby to make a prophet out of, don't it? Seems as though the only tool He could have used to rake up Stubby would be a fine-tooth comb."

Now, the purpose of a fine-tooth comb, especially by canawlers and such people, was unpleasantly familiar, and Uncle Lander's remark was much criticized by the religious because it intimated impiously that the Supreme Being would so demean himself as to to use a delousing implement.

Meredosia PTA Holds Potluck Supper At School

MEREDOSIA — The January meeting of the Meredosia-Chambersburg PTA began Wednesday night with a potluck supper in the Meredosia grade school dining room. Ham, hot rolls, coffee and milk were furnished by the association. A last-minute conflict with another meeting caused the change from Chambersburg, as scheduled, to the Meredosia school. About 75 parents, teachers and children attended the supper, which was supervised by Mrs. Robert Pool, Mrs. Allen Chrisman, Mrs. William Wilhite, Mrs. Dean Hobbs, Mrs. Don Grisham and Mrs. Harvey Dawson Jr.

After supper, chairs were set up in the gym next door. President John Stanfield called the meeting to order and thanked the committee in charge of the supper.

The secretary, Mrs. Emery Hinchee, read the minutes of the January meeting and the treasurer's report. Mr. Stanfield showed literature from Hills Brothers advocating an "Earn an Urn" project for organizations; no action was taken. He announced that the February meeting will be at Chambersburg, and that the May meeting may be there, instead of in the high school.

The refreshment committee for the Feb. 10 meeting is Mrs. Joe Schneider, Mrs. Margaret Petri, Mrs. Robert Bogue, Mrs. Edgar Ham, Mrs. Harold Schroeder and Mrs. Russell Ross.

Robert Bogue, program chairman of the month, introduced Andy Anderson, program director of WRMS, Beardstown. Mr. Anderson gave a brief description of the long drawn out process of obtaining a broadcasting license, and told a number of interesting stories about his connection with music and radio.

After the talk, Mr. Stanfield called attention to the penny drill box and announced that there were rolls and ham which could be purchased.

Your NEA Income Tax Primer

(Eighth of 12 Chapters)
By RICHARD A. MULLENS
Written for NEA Service

Every taxpayer, regardless of the amount of his income, must choose one of the two following amounts to subtract from income before computing his tax:

1. The total of his expenditures in 1959 for deductible items like contributions, taxes, interest, medical expenses, and casualty losses; or,

2. The so-called standard deduction which amounts to about 10 per cent of your income under $10,000.

The idea is to choose whichever of the above amounts gives you the larger deduction. Most taxpayers find that the standard deduction is larger, but before you can wisely decide which amount to deduct, you have to know what itemized deductions you can claim.

This and the next article of the Primer describe the deductible items.

Contributions

You can claim as a deduction contributions to recognized, nonprofit religious, charitable, educational and scientific organizations; to societies for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, and to governmental organizations for exclusively public purposes.

You cannot deduct dues paid to social organizations even though they have charitable or welfare subsidiaries to which gifts are deductible.

You cannot deduct gifts to individuals no matter how needy they may be.

Contributions to political parties or to any organization which uses the money to influence legislation are not deductible.

If a contribution is made in property, the value of the property (not its cost to you) is the measure of the contribution for purpose of the deduction.

For example, if you donate stock now worth $500 but which only cost you $100, your charitable deduction is $500. Furthermore, you are not taxed on its increase in value, which you would be if you sold the stock.

The value of services rendered to charitable organizations is not deductible as a contribution. A blood donation is considered to be services rendered.

Out-of-pocket reimbursed expenses, such as for transportation, travel, uniforms, telephone, equipment, etc., incurred in rendering such services are deductible as contributions.

Any contribution claimed must have been actually paid in cash or property in 1959. A pledge to pay money in some future year is not deductible in 1959.

Interest

All interest paid on loans can be itemized on page 2 of Form 1040 or Form 1040W, except interest paid on loans incurred to buy wholly tax-exempt securities or single premium life insurance or annuity contracts. The taxpayer deducting the interest must be legally obligated to pay the interest.

Those of you who are purchasing a home by monthly payments are undoubtedly paying a considerable amount of interest each month. In many instances, the interest payments will be so large that they alone will exceed your standard deduction.

Interest charges on installment purchases can be deducted, even though not separately stated, as long as there is at least a carrying charge separately stated. In such case the carrying charges will be considered to include not more than a 6 per cent interest charge based on the average unpaid balance under the contract during the year, but not in excess of the carrying charge attributed to that year.

Taxes

Many of the taxes you paid in 1959 can be deducted on page 2 of Form 1040 or Form 1040W, if you choose to itemize deductions. To be deductible, the tax must be imposed on you and paid by you. This means that you cannot deduct taxes you pay on your mother's or other person's property.

State income taxes, property taxes, and local gasoline and retail sales taxes are examples of deductible taxes.

Most taxpayers do not have receipts or do not keep a record of small payments for deductions like gasoline tax. A reasonable estimate is permitted.

The gasoline tax can be estimated by dividing the total number of miles driven in 1959 by the average number of miles your car goes on a gallon of gas. Then multiply this by the state and local tax per gallon. Do not include the Federal gasoline tax. It is not deductible.

The following plan will give you a reasonable estimate of the sales tax. There is generally no sales tax on rent, insurance or savings:

First add up what you spent or set aside in 1959 for items on which there is no sales tax, and subtract such amount from your total income.

To the remainder, add anything you bought out of savings or by borrowing that would be subject to sales tax. Multiply the sum of these by your sales tax rate. If you live in a locality where food is subject to sales tax, add what you spent on food to the amount subject to tax before multiplying by the sales tax rate.

Junior Chamber Of Commerce Marks 40th Year

National Jaycee Week Jan. 17 - 23

Charter Members Were From Old Dancing Club In St. Louis, Missouri

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, for civic minded young men 21 to 36 years of age, was founded in 1915 in St. Louis, Mo. The organization was the brainchild of one Henry Giessenbier, Jr., and the idea has now covered 90 nations and territories and includes 350,000 members.

The Junior Chamber International is the world's third largest international club and its headquarters are at Miami Beach, Florida. The United States Jaycee headquarters is located at Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Back in 1915 Giessenbier got together members of a dancing club in his home town. This group decided to call themselves Young Men's Progressive Civic Association. Later this name was changed to Junior Citizens, which abbreviated to initials "J.C." and ultimately to the present use of Jaycees.

In 1918 the St. Louis, Mo., Chamber of Commerce invited the Junior Citizens to become affiliated as the Junior Chamber of Commerce. This affiliation became so popular the "St. Louis plan" spread quickly to other cities. At the present the Jaycees no longer are affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce and the name is similar and the objective for civic betterment coincides.

The Jaycee movement spread so fast that within a year the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce had organizations in 24 cities. Now there are 3,700 such chapters in the national Jaycees with a quarter-million members.

Presiding Officers of Jacksonville Chapter

Formed 15 Years Ago Jacksonville Jaycees Community's Finest

The Junior Chamber of Commerce was organized in 1940 in Jacksonville and through the past fifteen years has established itself as a young man's organization whose members are the planners, builders and leaders for the community. Not only is the young businessman a member but many rural residents are active in the Jacksonville Jaycees.

The charter president was Dick Hartman, who lost his life in World War Two. There are eight past presidents of the Jacksonville Jaycees who are still active in the Chapter. At the present time the local organization has 125 members; ten associate members and one honorary member.

The Jaycees conduct 35 projects annually for community betterment and providing youth activities. Some of the outstanding projects have been the erection of street signs; building of two wooden lungs, for auxiliary use at Passavant and Our Saviour's hospitals.

The painting of fire plugs and development of the area at the new lake. Two years ago the Jaycees very successfully hosted the Miss Illinois Pageant and this year will do the same with the Outstanding Young Farmer program for the State.

Last year the locals conducted a sectional Sports Jamboree for Illinois Jaycees. Four hundred young people from communities in west central Illinois participated in track and field events and swimming.

Youth Activities

For the young people Jaycees provide the Fishing Derby; Junior Olympics; Junior Golf; Junior Tennis; Eater Egg Hunt; Teenage Road-E-O.; Baseball Trip and the Santa Phone project

Many Civic Projects

Among the civic projects are the annual Home Lighting Contest at Christmas time; Outstanding Young Farmer Award for the rural area; Distinguished Service Award for young person in the community

City Council; Lake Development; Fair Tickets; Christmas Parade; Free of lights participation; Miss Jacksonville Pageant; participation in civic and patriotic parades; civic improvements; religious activities both individually and as a group and Civil Defense work.

Among the Jaycee activities within the Chapter are: Bosses Night; Outstanding Jaycee Award; Broom Sale; social activities and Leadership Training.

$75,000 For Polio Fight

Over the past ten years the Jacksonville Jaycees have conducted and sponsored the March of Dimes drive here. An estimated $75,000 has been collected during that time.

Community Assists

The Chapter President, Dick Curtis, feels much credit is due local merchants and businessmen who employ many of the Jaycees. Without the employers' help in providing cash assists, materials and time off work for the employed (many are also self-employed) members the young men would not be able to work in the many projects.

Membership Drive During February

The Jacksonville Jaycees will have a membership drive on during the month of February. The goal for the local chapter is thirty new members.

Every member of the club is on the lookout for prospective members. Membership offers leadership training to the individual, excellent social activities and the outlet for young men to best serve their community.

Bill Fulkerson is the Jaycee membership chairman. Meetings are held the second and fourth Tuesday evenings of each month at Hotel Dunlap.

Any young man in the community, 21 to 36 years of age not contacted by a Jaycee in regard to joining the Jacksonville chapter is asked to contact Mr. Fulkerson, 1638 Lakeview Terrace, phone CH 5-7304.

Dues are only ten dollars per year and this includes representation in the State and National Associations.

Many employers urge their young employees to associate with this organization. Not only is the companionship on high level but businesswise the contact is most helpful. The Jaycees are always alert to progress and in the thick of activities worthwhile.

U.S. Director

BOB SCHIRMER

The local chapter has one member, Bob Schirmer, who is a national director. Schirmer represents the State organization in national programs and policies designed to best serve the individual locals in Illinois. He makes visits to 20 locals to stimulate interest in National programs, selects State chairmen for National programs, etc.

40th Year Convention In St. Louis

Jaycees throughout the nation this month mark the 40th anniversary of the national Jaycee movement and in June a more colorful observance takes place when members congregate in St. Louis for the 40th convention June 21-23.

It was in St. Louis that Henry Giessenbier formed a progression of dance clubs which eventually evolved into the Junior Chamber movement.

In early 1910 Giessenbier organized the Herculaneum Club, devoted to the betterment of the dance. From this group, Giessenbier, a good organizer, united several similar clubs into the Federation of Dancing Clubs.

At one of the Federation's meetings in 1915 Col. H. N. Morgan addressed the members on the need for a new parkway system in St. Louis. From this message interest grew for the organization of a club devoted to civic matters and self-improvement.

Not since these first movements has the national Junior Chamber returned to St. Louis for a meeting. Feeling that a return to the birthplace on the 40th anniversary would reacquaint Jaycees with the principles and ideals upon which the organization was founded, the St. Louis Jaycees decided in 1957 to bid for the 1960 convention.

Thousands plan to attend the great conclave. At the meeting many special events will mark the 40th anniversary in addition to the usual convention events.

Included on the schedule are memorial services at Giessenbier's grave, a past national presidents' testimonial banquet and program and special meetings in the very room in which the 1920 organizing caucus was held.

Jaycees everywhere are urged to return to the Jaycee birthplace for what should be the greatest Jaycee meeting in history. For information contact state On To St. Louis chairman or write Jaycee Anniversary Convention, 224 North Broadway, St. Louis, 2, Mo.

| Nov. 12, 1940 | "It was decided one of the first major projects would be the problem of parking on or around the square." |
| Mar. 25, 1941 | Dick Lukeman (secretary) closed the minutes by saying, "at this point I had to leave and I believe this broke up the rest of the meeting." |
| Dec. 22, 1947 | "On motion of Bob Fay, seconded by Flynn and followed by acclamation of the Chapter a special commendation was to be included in the club's records to Dick Hopper for his excellent work on the Song Fest in 1947. |

| July 16,1952 | "Jack Mathews and Harris Rowe, especially the former, gave the anticipated highlights of the state board meeting. Mathews mentioned that wives and visiting delegates would be entertained at bridge out at Doc O'Briens, with nuts and cokes served as refreshments. |

Miss America Visits City

The spotlight beamed on Jacksonville two years ago when the local Jaycees hosted the Miss Illinois Pageant and Miss America, Marilyn VandeBur of Denver, Colorado, and her mother visited the city. Being greeted at the airport are above, Mrs. VandeBur, back to camera, and the then Miss America shaking hands with Mayor DuBois. With dark glasses is Bill Buchanan, representing the Jaycees and to right background can be seen Miss Sharon Haywood, Miss Jacksonville at that time.

Jaycee Creed

WE BELIEVE

That faith in God gives meaning and purpose to human life;

That the brotherhood of man transcends the sovereignty of nations.

That economic justice can best be won by free men through free enterprise;

That government should be of laws rather than of men;

That earth's great treasure lies in human personality;

And that service to humanity is the best work of life.

National Honors

The local Chapter received National recognition for two projects several years ago. One, the construction of two wooden lungs for auxiliary use in Passavant and Our Saviour's hospital, one of which is pictured above.

Another project receiving country wide honor was the obtaining of and installing of street signs for the city and South Jacksonville. Worthwhile work such as this established the Jaycees as an organization needed in the community.

Hocking Serves In State Post

In 1958-59 Milton Hocking, former president of the local Jaycees served as State Budget Director. Hocking was appointed to the state post by Illinois Jaycee President, F. John Taylor of Virginia, member of the Beardstown Chapter.

Hocking was responsible for budgeting the $35,000 income and expenses for the 9,000 Jaycees in the State of Illinois.

March Of Dimes Annual Project

City Attracts Celebrities

Because of the Jaycees the City has attracted a number of celebrities. In 1958 when Miss America glamorized the Miss Illinois Pageant she was feted with a rain-enforced indoor garden party held in the Dunlap Hotel lobby hosted by the John Carl family of Sandusky street. Miss VandeBur is pictured above right cutting one of the cakes served the afternoon before the Pageant.

Anita Ruth Olson of Chicago, who was named Miss Illinois in 1958 returned to Jacksonville several weeks following her triumph and shopped locally for a complete wardrobe from local merchants and had fittings for a lovely formal gown made by Mrs. Chalmers Babb. Chicago's former Miss Illinois, nee Miss North Shore, is pictured at the left.

Activities For Youth

The local Jaycees have many projects for young people in the community. In 1958 a baseball clinic was held at Nichols Park with Mr. Shortstop Marty Marion of the St. Louis Cardinals in charge. Hundreds of boys, and girls too, flocked to the location for a session with their diamond id

Champion's KO Over Patterson Voted Top Upset

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ingemar Johansson's sensational technical knockout victory over Floyd Patterson in last June's heavyweight championship bout Friday was named the Upset of the Year for 1959 in the annual Associated Press poll.

A 5 - 1 underdog, the husky Swede floored Patterson seven times in the third round before the one-sided match was stopped. It was the most stunning boxing upset since 1936 when Max Schmeling, the Black Uhlan from Germany, flattened Joe Louis.

Johansson's conquest was tabbed the most unexpected sports result by 63 of the 114 sportswriters and broadcasters participating in the poll. On a basis of three points for first place, two for second and one for third, Ingo's triumph received 239 points.

The Los Angeles Dodgers' National League pennant victory collected 15 firsts and 67 points. The Chicago White Sox' first place finish in the American League race drew 12 top positions and 58 points. The New York Yankees' third place windup was named first on 10 ballots and piled up 40 points.

Johansson, who Thursday night received the Eddie Neil award as the Fighter of the Year, was given little chance to wrest the title from Patterson. The odds on a successful defense by Patterson went from 3-1 to 4-1 and finally 5-1 at ringside.

The Dodgers, off their seventh-place standing in 1958, were figured no higher than fourth by most of the experts. However, they shot past leading San Francisco a week before the season's end and wound up in a tie with Milwaukee. They beat the Braves in two straight playoff games.

The Yankees, after winning four pennants in a row, were overwhelming favorites to repeat. The White Sox were considered too short on power, but speed and unexpectedly good pitching by Early Wynn and Bob Shaw helped pull them to their first flag in 40 years.

Manchester Church Hears Report On Improvements

MANCHESTER — The Official Board, meeting at the Manchester Methodist church, after receiving a progress report from the chairman of the building committee concerning the basement improvement which has been underway since the middle of October, took steps toward setting up a sound financial program that would see the undertaking to a successful conclusion.

As a preliminary step in this program, the women of the church will meet Sunday after worship to discuss the matter with the chairman.

The Board approved and paid all outstanding bills leaving $704 in the building fund to complete and fully equip the improvement as now contemplated. While this $704 will be ample to complete the improvement as originally planned, the chairman explained it will lack from $1,600 to $2,000 to refine, equip and finish it off including painting the church in the spring. Originally it was contemplated to finance the bare necessities of a basement and go from there.

Up to date more than twice as much as was first scheduled has been made possible by the many voluntary donations of money, labor, material and free use of equipment. The progress report of the chairman showed all outside work completed which consisted of the building of two new additions to the church to house the front and rear entrances, installation of a septic tank and disposal system, tiling, guttering and grading of the premises.

The progress report of the chairman showed all outside work completed which consisted of the building of two new additions to the church to house the front and rear entrances, installation of a septic tank and disposal system, tiling, guttering and grading of the premises.

The inside work has reached the stage of laying the stairs and floor with the retaining walls, wash rooms, and ledges all in place. Plastering the upper brick walls and painting the ceiling is now underway. The layout of the kitchen and its equipment is now being planned. This kitchen equipment, lavatories, stools for the wash rooms, water system, walks and exterior painting constitutes the major items for which funds are now being sought.

The chairman made a full accounting of all moneys spent and gave full credit to all participants. He marvelled at the fine cooperation he and his committee had received from not only members of the church but many who were not members who volunteered money, material and other assistance.

ROOMS GET INTO RUTS, TOO

Especially bedrooms. Too many of us cling to the outmoded idea that the bedroom should be done in pastels — with timid print fabrics for accent. True, some effective rooms are created from this formula IF originality of treatment is introduced. But all too often a nondescript run-of-the-mill room results, and this kind of room does nothing for your morale.

Your bedroom is the most personal room in your home and should bear the imprint of your personality just as definitely as your most personal possessions do.

Besides comfort and convenience, it should offer you a restful haven where you can withdraw in peace and serenity — a place that teems with the colors (vibrant or subdued) that give YOU a sense of well being and security.

The bedroom sketched above is restful and attractive in the smart mood of today. Matching wallpaper and fabric in tones of sandalwood brown and cream create a pleasing uninterrupted background which plays up the elegance of the gold - touched ivory lacquered furniture. Natural finish wood would be equally effective in this setting. Wall-to-wall carpeting is creamy beige. Pictures matted in cornflower blue add striking color accent.

MacMurray Nips Harris, 66-65; Tigers And JHS Lose

HighlandersCapitalize On Technical Foul To Edge Harris Teachers

ST. LOUIS — Harv Hohenberger sank a technical foul award in the final two seconds of play to give MacMurray a 66-65 victory over Harris Teachers Friday night.

The Highlanders trailed by four points with 30 seconds to go but guard Gary Little who came on as a substitute knotted the score at 65-all with two seconds left to play. Harris then asked for a time out for some last-shot strategy but the timeout backfired as it was their sixth and a technical foul award awaited Hohenberger.

The free throw and possession of the ball assured Coach Bill Wall's clan their ninth victory against four defeats. The win was also MacMurray's fourth straight.

MacMurray was forced to play a slow and cautious contest in order to combat Harris height. The Highlanders led at halftime, 32-28, and soon opened up a ten point lead in the second half but Harris rallied and caught up with 11 minutes left in the game, 48-48.

Harris then went ahead and increased its margin to eight points with four minutes remaining in the close struggle. MacMurray came out of its zone and the full court press rattled Harris' style and enabled the clan to cut the deficit to four points with 30 seconds remaining. This set the stage for Little and Hohenberger.

Ron Price, who set the offensive pace for the winners in the first half, scored 16 points but had to settle for second place scoring laurels as Gary Little came through for 17 markers.

Sidner, who paced Harris in the second half, scored 18 of his 23 tallies in the final half.

The Highlanders made 14 of 23 free throws while Harris sank 19 of 36 attempts.

Crimson Mistakes Give MacArthur 56 - 43 Decision

Jacksonville blundered away its ninth straight defeat Friday night with an erratic passing game in a 56-42 setback to MacArthur of Decatur.

The Crimsons made one serious bid in the final quarter to overcome the Generals' lead when they pulled within seven points of the margin MacArthur had controlled throughout the contest. Forward John Bourn collected two of his eight free throws with 5:34 left in the game to cut the deficit to seven points, 47-40. But the Jacks lost whatever chance they may of had for their first win of the campaign when they collected only two more points the remainder of the game.

Both clubs traded early points in the opening period and the Jacks saw their only leads of the tilt in this stanza. The first slim spread came on Bourn's free throw 15 seconds after the opening tip and then with 4:35 left center Richard Sweeney got JHS its final lead on a short jump shot, 3-2. In the next two minutes of play, Coach Ray DeMoulin's Generals stretched the margin to 9-3. JHS trailed after eight minutes of play, 11-5.

While the Generals held the Crimsons scoreless for the first three minutes of play in the second canto, the lead was increased to 17-5. MacArthur held a 27-17 halftime margin.

The third canto saw both clubs even in the scoring with 16 points each. The winners made seven field goals plus two free throws while Coach John Chapman's five sank 10 charity tosses and only three fielders. JHS still trailed by 10 after three quarters of play, 43-33.

The opening two minutes and 34 seconds of the final period saw the Crimsons outscoring MacArthur, 7-4, but JHS mustered only two more points in the closing 5:34 of play and the Generals had victory number eight in 11 starts in the bag.

Bob Lyon and Keith Lewis paced MacArthur's scoring with 16 and 12 points. John Bourn and Richard Sweeney hit 14 and 11 respectively for the losers.

Charley James On Schedule For Cardinals

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The majors in three years. That was the optimistic timetable set by the St. Louis Cardinals' front office for Charley James when they signed him off a college campus in the summer of 1957.

The former University of Missouri football star is right on schedule. If he doesn't make it this year, he certainly will in 1961, according to most of the experts.

The 21-year-old outfielder played at Rochester last year, batted .300 in triple A competition and was voted the International League's rookie of the year. Not bad for a youngster only in his second year in organized baseball.

At Missouri, Charley was a first string halfback on the football team as well as a baseball standout. The Cards knew he was good because they started him in double A, at Houston, where he drove in 104 runs and hit 19 homers on a .278 batting average in his freshman year.

The Cardinals no doubt will take a long look at Tim McCarver, their prize 18-year-old catcher, signed last June. This boy has had only 90 games experience as a pro, including eight with the Cards at the end of the 1959 season.

McCarver played 66 games at Keokuk in the Three I League where he quickly demonstrated he was advanced for the class B circuit. Then he was promoted to Rochester where he batted .357 in 17 International League games. He had 4-for-24 as a Cardinal.

A fellow with five years of seasoning who stands a fair chance of sticking is Jim McKnight, 23, a second baseman who had a whale of a year at Tulsa in the Texas League. He batted .333 in 106 games. He didn't fare quite as well in Rochester where he hit only .197 in 22 games.

NEXT: BOSTON RED SOX.

West Coach Plans To Give The East Fits

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Red Hickey, happy in his role as a favorite, said Friday his Western All Stars' balanced running and passing could really give the East fits in Sunday's pro bowl football game.

The West's aerial attack has Baltimore's Johnny Unitas and Bobby Layne of Pittsburgh throwing to Ray Berry (Baltimore) Del Schofner (Los Angeles); Billy Wilson (San Francisco), Lenny Moore (Baltimore), Paul Hornung, (Green Bay) and Jon Arnett (Los Angeles).

The East defense can't afford to drop back to stop the West passes, said Hickey, coach of the San Francisco 49ers.

"If they do," he said, "we'll come a runnin'."

Hickey said he didn't want to underestimate the East's fine defensive stars. But he has more than a couple of ace running backs up his sleeve; Rick Casares, Chicago Bears battering ram; J.D. Smith of the 49ers; Hornung and a pair of the swiftest ball carriers in the league, Moore and Arnett.

On-And-On Wins $63,500 Handicap

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Calumet Farm's On-and-On swept to a two-length victory in the $63,500 Tropical Park Handicap Friday track record time of 1:46 3-5 for the mile and an eighth.

L. P. Guy's Pointer was second and Modan Stable's Stratmat finished third in the 12-horse field.

On-And-On, a son of the great Nashrullah and favorite with the closing day crowd of 12,337, paid $5.80, $3.90 and $2.90 in the $2 mutuel.

The record for the distance is 1:46 2-5, set by Bug Brush in California last year. Tropical Park's old record was 1:47 2-5, set by Stratmat last Christmas Day.

Pointer led most of the way but as in the Orange Bowl Handicap on Jan. 2, On-And-On took over the lead entering the stretch and finished with plenty to spare.

In that race, Stratmat finished second and Pointer was third.

Three Players Head NCAA Scoring Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It took just one big game each to send George Duncan, Jim McDonald and Kelly Coleman into the 1-2-3 positions in the NCAA small college basketball scoring figures.

Duncan, of Wayne State, scored 50 points against Western Reserve last week and zoomed from 11th place to first with a 31-point scoring average for six games. McDonald of West Virginia Wesleyan and Coleman of Kentucky Wesleyan made 49 each against Salem and Southern Illinois, respectively. McDonald moved from 13th to second with a 29.7 average and Coleman from 21st to third at 29.6.

Ron Altenberg of Cornell College, last week's leader, dropped back to eighth place after scoring 59 points in three games.

Pete Gulden of Washington and Jefferson leads in field goal accuracy with a .724 percentage. Ron Slaymaker of Emporia State is best from the foul line with two misses in 42 attempts for .952. Zelmo Beaty of Prairie View is top rebounder with a 2.48 percentage.

Mississippi College (5-2) and West Virginia Tech (14-2) are the only teams averaging more than 100 points a game—113.7 for the former and 108.3 for the latter. DUCK'S LONG LIFE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A pintail drake found dead near Martins Ferry, Ohio, was a Methuselah of wild ducks, the State Natural Resources Department says. It was still wearing a band put on at the Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge near Brigham City, Utah, on Aug. 25, 1941.

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

North decided to respond one diamond instead of a spade because his spade suit just did not appeal to him. South did not know exactly what to bid over one diamond and decided to temporize by bidding a three-card spade suit. Much to his dismay, he found himself at a spade game shortly thereafter.

Instead of panicking as some players might, South proceeded to make the best of an apparently bad contract and wound up with the marbles.

He ducked the first heart but won the second and led a diamond. East ducked so South was in his own hand. He played a second diamond. East won that trick and led a heart which South ruffed.

South cashed his king and queen of trumps, came over to dummy with the jack of clubs and played the ace of trumps. Now he led clubs and West could take his high trump whenever he wished.

Of course, if North had responded one spade he might have reached four spades more normally and given the hand the same play.

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

♠Q J 3 2 ♥5 4 ♦A 8 7 ♣A K 4 3
What do you do?

A—Bid four spades. Your partner should have four trumps and 11 or 12 points.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of raising spades North has bid two diamonds over your one-spade bid. What do you do now?

Answer Monday

Mickey Mantle of the Yankees struck out 126 times last season.

TV NEWS

by DON SHUMAKER

The unsung heroes of every show are the character actors; the faces that everyone knows, the names that no one can remember. Such a face belongs to Clancy Cooper, a rugged, gruff-talking Irishman whom you know as "Timmo McQueen", the saloon keeper on the ABC-TV "Lawman" series. Clancy, although he began as a rodeo bronc rider and professional prizefighter, found his way to Broadway, where he contributed over the years to some 35 productions. Previously, as a young man fresh from the University of Iowa, where he majored in the unlikely combination of geology and drama, Clancy conceived, promoted and built the now famous Kane Park Theatre in Cleveland Heights, where he also served as director before Broadway called. Then in 1940, Hollywood gave a nod his way, and a contract led to parts in over 150 pictures and 175 TV dramas during the past two decades. In a brogue injected during his boyhood in the rip-roaring Dublin Gulch of Butte, Montana, Clancy will also talk for hours on his championship Babe Ruth League baseball team, which he somehow finds time to coach. He himself once played baseball in several pro leagues, and earlier, his sports ability won him a college scholarship. Next time you watch "Lawman", keep an eye on the wild Irishman . . . his name is Clancy Cooper, and he'll be around for a long, long time, and time, also, is one factor that even the finest TV set can't overcome. Tubes do wear out, wires loosen, pictures become distorted. When this happens, call us for prompt and expert attention to your TV. Our reputation in the radio and TV repair business is your guarantee of dependable service. SHUMAKER TV AND APPLIANCES, 222 East State St. Phone 5-6595
